PECORD TO REFEREE BIG BOUT

A. J. Drexel-Biddle and Tex Rickard Will Act as Ringside Judges

By FRANK G. MENKE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Toledo, O., June 27.—Ollie Pecord will referee the Willard-Dempsey fight here July 4.

Tex Rickard and Major A. J. Drexel-Biddle will act as ringside judges.

Decision to abide by the rules of the Toledo Boxing Commission and use their official referee as the "third man" in the ring was announced here today by Tex Rickard.

At the same time the desire of Jess Willard that Tex Rickard referee was met by naming the fight promoter as one of the ringside judges.

The selection of Major Biddle, head of the National Boxing Commission, which was called upon to decide the referee question, was taken here as a compliment to that organization and as recognition of the great work it has done for boxing during the war.

As alternate referee, Jack Skelley, veteran arbitrator of Yonkers, N. Y., was named, and W. Warren Barbour of New York was chosen official timekeeper.

Toledoans were delighted at the announcement that Pecord, their "favorite son," was to be the "third man" in the ring Independence Day.

Although Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, has been outspoken against the plan of having three officials, it is believed that the selection of Rickard and Biddle as judges will completely silence his objections.

THE HAGUE DENIES ESCAPE

Mueller Goes With "Bleeding Heart" to Sign Treaty for Germany

By International News Service.

London, June 27.—It is officially announced at The Hague that the former German Crown Prince is still at the Island of Wieringen, said a Reuter dispatch from The Hague today.

By ALFRED G. ANDERSEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, June 27.—"I leave with a bleeding heart," declared Foreign Minister Hermann Mueller, as he boarded a train at Potsdam station last night, en route to Versailles, where he will head the German delegation that will sign the peace treaty.

He added that he considered himself the "medium of a great sacrifice." Herr Mueller was joined at Essen today by Dr. Bell, another member of the Cabinet, who is going to Versailles to sign the treaty. They are due to arrive in the old French capital early Saturday morning.

Herr Mueller said the German delegation would discuss en route to Versailles the question of whether they would participate in any peace celebrations in Germany after the signing of the treaty.

De Valera Invited to Address the House

Eamon de Valera, president of the Irish Republic, was invited today to address the Massachusetts House of Representatives. An order directing Speaker Warner to extend to De Valera the greetings of the House and its congratulations "upon his return to the land of his birth" was adopted without opposition or debate when introduced by Representative David J. Maloney of Chelsea.

PUBLIC CONTROL MANAGER URGED BY COOLIDGE

Proposed Official Would Take Over Railways That Fail to Pay Expenses

Public control by a public manager of any street railway in Massachusetts which cannot earn money enough to meet its expenditures and the extension of credit by the State, cities or towns to permit the continued operation of such a road was recommended by Governor Coolidge today as a piece of emergency legislation worthy the attention of the Legislature before adjournment.

Governor Coolidge pointed out that some of the street railways of the State face suspension of operations unless some method of relief is de- [illegible] trol and the authority of a public [illegible] subject to the approval of the Public Service Commission.

WOOL MEN GET PRISON TERMS

English & O'Brien Sentenced to 18 Months and Fined $10,000 Each

William A. English and John H. O'Brien of the firm of English & O'Brien, wool merchants of No. 275 Congress street, accused of defrauding the United States of more than $1,500,000 by false income tax returns, are to be fined $10,000 each and sentenced to serve eighteen months in prison, according to a decision today by Judge Anderson of the United States Court.

The defendants have pleaded guilty to indictments which charged them with conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with their income tax returns.

Assistant United States District Attorney Goldberg today stated that the government is going right after the firm for the taxes not accounted for as well as the 100 per cent. fine imposed by the law for making false returns.

A few weeks ago when the defendants were given a hearing before Judge Anderson relative to sentence they promised to return to the Revenue Department of the Federal government $1,500,000.

The Internal Revenue Department informed the court of its willingness to accept the indemnity offered by the accused merchants and the merchants themselves pointed out that if they were imprisoned they could not make good their offer and the government would be the loser.

The government contended that English & O'Brien used a double set of books, making personal withdrawals from the partnership funds and calling them miscellaneous expenses.

At the hearing before Judge Anderson a few weeks ago, the prosecuting attorney stated that English & O'Brien's individual returns for 1917 were about $85,000 each, although the government investigation showed that they withdrew more than $500,000 during that year. Several hearings on the question of sentence were held before Judge Anderson handed down his decision today.

Wilson Lifts Ban—Wait a Minute—It's Only on Gold

By International News Service.

Washington, June 27.—Secretary to the President Tumulty was routed out of bed early today by the insistent ringing of his telephone. At the other end was the White House attache who handles the cable messages from the President.

"Cablegram for you from the President," he said.

"Read it," the secretary ordered.

"'J. P. Tumulty, White House: I have decided to lift the ban on——'"

"Yes, yes, go on."

APPEAL TO JURY FOR BARNEY AND DILLON

Final appeals of their counsel for the acquital of Herman L. Barney and John F. Dillon, charged with the murder of Patrolman Charles E. Deininger, were made in Superior Court today.

Edward P. Barry opened with a plea for Dillon, whom he depicted as a motherless boy who had been led astray through lack of parental care and counsel. He was followed by Attorney Francis Juggins, counsel for Barney.

"I am here pleading for the life of Herman L. Barney, the life which the District Attorney will tell you shall be declared forfeited, for an occurrence on February 13, 1917," said Mr. Juggins.

"The District Attorney, in his opening statement to you, outlining the government's case, told you, and I as-

ANTI-EVICTION BILL SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

No tenant can be evicted without thirty days' notice, except for nonapyment of rent, according to a bill to which the Governor today affixed his signature. The bill is aimed at those landlords who have evicted tenants in five days or less in order to secure increased rents. The Legislature passed it at the suggestion of Governor Coolidge.

COLLAPSES AT HER ANDOVER HOME

Lawrence, June 27.—With a cry of "Allie, Allie," Mrs. Bessie Mae (Skeels) Lundgren stretched her arms toward her husband in their Andover home today and collapsed in a dead faint, just as she was about to start for the courtroom for the final phase of her trial on the charge of the murder of Florence W. Gay.

The trial was suspended while Dr. W. D. Walker, the family physician, worked over the chalk-faced nurse and tried to bring her back to consciousness. Alfred Lundgren, the long-suffering husband, seemed on the point of imitating the "Sunshine Nurse," but the need of action enabled him to fight off his momentary weakness.

Dr. Walker said after the frail defendant had been restored to her senses that "it was only a swoon, and no serious effects are feared," and intimated that she would be able to attend court at the usual opening hour tomorrow.

Mr. Lundgren, who has been barred from his wife's room in order to avoid exciting her, had no opinion to offer, but was apparently doubtful that she would make such a speedy recovery.

A new nurse is in attendance on Mrs. Lundgren and her immediate household is dedicating itself to the task of restoring her to sufficient strength to go on with the ordeal. It is known that she has a deathly fear that sickness may compel a further postponement of the trial, and still further delay what she regards as her certain vindication by the jury.

TIRED OUT YESTERDAY.

Mrs. Lundgren withstood yesterday's ordeal fairly well. It was about 4 o'clock her breathing became labored and it seemed as if she was about to faint. "I am very tired, Judge," she said, "but I'll try to go on." A few minutes later a short hysterical cry escaped her lips when she was told that her testimony for the day was at an end. Water was brought her and she drank it, draining the glass.

Stray Shot Hit Girl; Estate Gets $2,000 Verdict

A verdict of $2000 for injuries received by the late Miss A. McCullough of Revere when she was wounded by a stray shot from a shooting gallery was awarded to John J. O'Brien, administrator of her estate, by a jury in the eighth session of Superior Court today.

It was alleged that while Miss McCullough was standing at a gate in front of her home on Eastern avenue, Revere, she was struck in the neck by a bullet fired from a gallery across the street. Her windpipe was nearly severed and a long illness resulted, which did not, however, cause her death. Charles W. and Frank J. Sine, proprietors of the shooting gallery were the defendants.

GERMANS TO RESIST POLES IN SILESIA

Copenhagen, June 27.—Despite their dismissal by the German government, Generals Hoffman and Von Buelow plan to head a movement for armed resistance to Polish occupancy of the eastern territory assigned to Poland by the peace treaty, said a Berlin dispatch today. In furtherance of this plot a general strike has been declared in Silesia. The Berlin railway strike threatens to become country wide.

COUNSEL MAKE STIRRING APPEALS FOR BARNEY AND DILLON

sume he is going to be consistent that he was going to rely on circumstances which show that certain persons, three at that time, now two, with whom you are concerned, entered into a common purpose to kill some person, and I now use the words he used, which were: 'They would take care of anyone, even if it were a police officer, and if it were others than auto thieves they would take care of them.'

"The real impossibility of such an allegation as he went on with his evidence was brought with greater and greater force. He wants you to believe that these two men and another on a certain day in February at the Adams House, over a game of billiards, entered into a combination to go out and if the occasion arose to commit murder.

"He wants you to believe that these three men went down into this brilliantly illuminated Bowdoin square, hired a taxicab and went to Chelsea with some fell purpose in mind; that when they started in the automobile to go over to the garage if a man named Paeff or any other auto thief was stealing cars they were going to take care of them—meaning they were going to kill them.

"How improbable! The story that on the spur of the moment these men expected to arrive at the very moment the thieves were in the act of taking the cars away!

"Three boys, with one gun, bent on attacking the police ensconsed in the garage; then to overcome them and kill them.

"CONSPIRACY" EVIDENCE.

"There has been no evidence offered which indicates there was any such purpose in mind. They produced a man named Hurley—Hurley the informer who was charged with these two men with being an accessory before and after the fact in this case. They put him on the stand and want you to believe him. The District Attorney says, and wants you to believe, he will not be rewarded for coming here and telling his story.

"Hurley tells you of the conversation in the Adams House, and tells further that at that time Dillon made the statement before Barney, that he had bought a car and paid a deposit of $50 on it. That's the evidence of a conspiracy. Was anything said about going over and taking care of a policeman at the garage? Was there any evidence that they were going over to take care of any auto bandits? No!

Reviewing the early life of Dillon, his motherless days in a home of poverty, Mr. Barry described Dillon's movements on the afternoon of the theft of the car and his trip to the Chelsea garage, declaring that if some police officer had not shirked his duty Dillon would have been arrested when he arrived at the garage with the stolen car and Deininger would never have been murdered.

"That afternoon," Mr. Barry continued, "Dillon called at my office, where he met Paeff. I was not there and if I had been Dillon would not have met Paeff, because Paeff wouldn't have been there.

"Then Dillon went to the Adams House to see Barney. The reason he wished to see Barney was that Barney owed him $30."

HURLEY, "MASTER LIAR."

"And now, gentlemen, I come to Hurley, the master liar of this outfit. In some ways he tells the truth. He has exonerated Dillon, but he tried to cover himself up by besmirching Barney. He is not entirely in accord with what happened at the Adams House, although in the main he corroborates Dillon, but he lets himself out.

"He corroborates Dillon's story about the car, in that he says there was no conversation on the way down. There is variance in the stories of that trip. Barney says that the car was hired for the round trip. Dillon said it was hired for only one way, and Hurley said the same. If the car was hired for only one way why did Hurley remain in it?

"That's in evidence, from Hurley, and Colonna as well. When they got to the point where the car was stopped two men got out. All agree that Dillon got out first. Colonna says he heard all the conversation in the car and didn't hear anything said about a gun. Hurley, if he is to be believed, never had a gun and never gave Barney a gun."

Mr. Barry characterized Colonna as "a bad actor," in commenting on his testimony. He continued: "Colonna says Dillon and Barney got out of the machine and said something to him, then both crossed the street. That was in rebuttal. But here's the story he told you in direct examination."

Attorney Barry read from the stenographic notes of this direct examination, which made Colonna say the men got out and went around in front of the car and stood there.

TRIED TO ESCAPE TROUBLE.

"That story he tells you, gentlemen," continued the attorney, "comes pretty near making me believe that Barney tells the truth when he says he got the gun from Hurley. It was then for the first time that I began to realize that Barney wasn't here with a framed defense, and that Hurley did have the gun and did give it to him."

Mr. Barry described the incidents at the garage preceding the shooting, as he interpreted them, and said, "Dillon saw that door open and saw a form framed in it. Do you suppose that if he had gone there to kill or to do harm to any one he would have run? Isn't it a fact that his act indicated that he wanted to get away from trouble?

"Dillon was fleeing like a greyhound and was fifty feet away when the shots were fired. I am sorry I cannot give you a little clearer account of what he did after that. You have got to find Dillon guilty of murder in the first or second degree or of nothing.

"Dillon ran because he had a stolen car in that garage, and because he knew it was stolen, although he told Barney he bought it. The only bright thing I ever knew Dillon to do was not to tell the police he stole that car."

Attorney Barry closed with a plea for his client's life, declaring that he went to the garage with no intent of murder.

SENATORS WILL RATIFY, WILSON BELIEVES

Paris, June 27.—President Wilson has the utmost confidence that the United States Senate will ratify the peace treaty shortly after it is presented in its final form.

The President plans to sail immediately after the signing, probably Sunday noon, landing in New York a week later. It is expected that he will request a joint session of the Senate and House on Monday, when he will address the members and at the same time deliver the treaty to the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations.

Latest advices reaching the President indicate that sufficient votes can be mustered to secure ratification, although the administration expects a bitter fight in the final stages.

The President has informed his colleagues that he is entirely convinced that public opinion will demand the ratification and that it will be unwilling to consent to a separation of the treaty and the League of Nations covenant.

Immediately following his address to Congress the President will begin a country-wide tour, presenting the facts to the people.

The American peace delegates are convinced that the ex-Kaiser will never be brought to trial. This clause was inserted at an insistent demand from British sources. Americans here think that the machinery for the proposed trial will be gone through with and an international tribunal actually formed, but it is believed that such a body would hold action in abatement in view of pleas raised on the ex-Kaiser's behalf that there is no such crime under international law as he is charged with.

BOSTON POLICE LEAVE POLL TAX BILLS

Dissatisfaction on Force Is Rumored Over Breaking of Precedent

For the first time in the history of the city the Boston police have been called upon to distribute poll tax bills. This unusual situation came about as a result of a request from Mayor Peters.

Rumors of extreme disatisfaction among the policemen have been heard already at City Hall. They demand to know the exact reason why they are called upon to do this work when the clerks and constables at City Hall have been doing it for years.

They point out that the saving to the city cannot be great, for in the past all of the work has been done by city employes.

Distribution already has started and the officers must deliver over 228,000 bills. It is expected that this task will be completed by Tuesday.

Officials at City Hall state that the new method is the result of improper distribution in the past. Formerly it is claimed, a batch of poll tax bill would be tucked under a door or thrown into a hallway or entry, only to be scattered by the wind or swept into the street.

Under this new system the police officer is made practically responsible for the safe delivery of the bill.

Police Commissioner Curtis said: "The police are distributing the 1919 poll tax bills at the request of Mayor Peters. Personally, I have heard no complaints. The city does not suffer in any respect as far as proper protection goes."

Despite the fact that it was at the Mayor's request that the police distribute the bills, he was not aware that the actual operation had commenced. Reporters asked him today what he knew about the plan and he remarked, "Well, such a plan is being considered but nothing has been done as yet because Collector Deland is out of town."

He registered complete surprise when informed that the distribution had been going on for two days.

NEPONSET TROLLEY IN COLLISION WITH AUTO

A Neponset bound trolley car from Quincy collided early today on Hancock street, near Russell Park, with an auto truck owned and driven by Dennis F. Crowley of East Milton. Both the auto truck and trolley were badly damaged but no one was injured.

FEAR SPARTACANS MAY SEIZE AMERICAN FOOD

London, June 27. — It is believed here that the Spartacan mob which has taken possession of Hamburg will attempt to capture the supplies aboard American food ships which recently arrived there.

Edwards Decorates War Hero With British Cross

For the first time in American military history a British military decoration was today pinned on the breast of a British warrior by an American officer, the unique ceremony being performed by Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, in his Boston headquarters by request of the British war department.

Captain Winthrop Pyemont, late of the 50th Division Signal Corps, British Expeditionary Forces, was decorated with the British military cross and bar, for "conspicuous and persistent gallantry."

Captain Pyemont, who was a lieutenant when he performed the acts for which he was today decorated, lives now at No. 38 Beacon street and studies law in a Boston institution. Among those present at the ceremony were Colonel Albert S. Williams, chief of staff, and Adjutant-Major Michael J. Moore.

The cross was won on November 5 and 6, 1916, and the citation says: "Lieutenant Pyemont worked personally without ceasing on the difficult task of keeping telephone lines open between advance brigade headquarters and the assaulting battalions under shell-fire, which was so continuous that the lines were cut far more frequently than they could be mended."

The bar was awarded for work done on October 23, 1917, and November 9, 1917, in keeping lines of communication open. A citation also accompanied it.

SIX TROOPSHIPS DUE IN BOSTON NEXT WEEK

Word has been received from the Naval Communication that a number of transports are expected in Boston next week. The U. S. S. Minnesotan is expected to arrive Monday or Tuesday. Other transports due are: Vedic, July 3; Finland, July 3; Wampum, July 3; Mongolia, July 3; Virginia, July 4.

As soon as definite arriving time is known the Mayor's reception committee for returning soldiers and sailors, Liberty Hall, will announce the leaving time for the welcoming boats to go down the harbor.

SHOT BY TAXI MAN; ROBBERY CHARGE MADE

Providence, June 27.—James Wilson, twenty-three, of Cambridge, Mass., is dying at the Rhode Island Hospital with a bullet in his left lung which he received, it is alleged, when he attempted today to hold-up a taxicab driver he had hired to drive him to Rocky Point.

According to the story told by Nicholas Landy, the chauffeur, he had driven his fare to Apponaug, a hamlet in the town of Warwick, when Wilson pressed a revolver to his head and told him to hand over his money. Landy says he complied, handing over $2, all the money he had with him.

Then, according to the story Landy told Chief of Police Cranston of Warwick, Wilson produced a coil of rope with the intention of tying the taxicab man to a tree. At that momen an automobile was heard approaching and when Wilson turned his head Landy drew his own revolver and fired at him.

Questioned by the authorities at the hospital, the dying man said that his name was Peter Sullivan, but a draft registration card, issued in New York city, identified him as Wilson.

$250,000 LOSS IN CAMBRIDGE FACTORY FIRE

Tenement Dwellers Driven Out by General Alarm Blaze in Packing Plant

Residents of the tenement house section of Cambridgeport were aroused shortly after midnight by one of the most spectacular fires in years, which burned for several hours, destroying the group of buildings owned by John Reardon & Sons Company, and occupied by Wilson & Co., the Chicago packers, at Waverly and Allston streets, with a loss estimated by the police at $250,000.

While firemen from Cambridge, Boston and Somerville, summoned by a general alarm, battled with the flames, residents of the tenement section stood huddled in the rain, watching the threatening advance of the fire.

Adjoining the old soap factory is a thickly settled section which the blaze menaced. In the rear are the freight yards of the Boston and Albany Railroad. Here flying sparks set fire to several freight cars, which, however, were saved.

The fire started in a small single story structure used as a smokehouse. Watchman "Jerry" Linehan discovered it and telephoned an alarm to the headquarters of the Cambridge police. The fire spread with amazing speed, and soon the entire group of buildings was ablaze and the entire neighborhood threatened.

The fats in the rendering plant made a spectacular blaze, which could be seen for miles around, and which resulted in crowds hurrying to the scene.

Automobile thieves made their appearance, and although they stole one car they left another in its place. The car stolen was the property of Clarence Hoagland of No. 341 Newbury street, Boston. Hoagland took a number of friends over to see the fire. The car was recovered by Patrolman Frank Andrews of the Central square station.

A touring car owned by Lewis P. Young of Newton was found at the fire, having been stolen in Newton after midnight.

JAIL SENTENCES FOR MEN WHO STOLE AUTO

For stealing an automobile, Homer J. Braun and Robert L. Cox, the latter a sailor, today were sentenced to eighteen months in the House of Correction by Judge Dowd in Municipal Court. The case was continued until Monday to give them opportunity to appeal. The machine was taken from Boylston and Charles street and abandoned in Waltham when gasoline was exhausted.

200 POUND BRIDE MUST MIND HIM, SAYS 81-YEAR-OLD GROOM-TO-BE

SHE'S ONLY 50, AND 6 FEET HIGH

No Philandering in His Family, Declares Marketman at Faneuil Hall

"Certainly it is quite as possible for a man to love a girl fifty years old, six feet tall, weighing 200 pounds, as to love one of your silly fluffy-ruffles, without a sensible idea in her head."

So spoke today John Alonzo Bryant, eighty-one-year-old bridegroom-to-be. Bryant, a marketman at Faneuil Hall, is to marry Miss Mary Gertrude Card, who tips the Faneuil Hall scales at around 200 and looks down upon many men from her six feet of goddess height.

This, according to the description of her co-workers, at Faneuil Hall. But not according to Bryant. "'Tis all a lie, a wicked lie," says he, "that the future Mrs. Bryant weighs 200 and is six feet tall. She weighs only —well, close on to 185—close on to that. Which is very far from 200."

To a question in regard to the affections—in Bryant's case—and their relation to a lady's weight, the bashful gentleman continued, with emphasis: "That's not to say that I wouldn't love Miss Card just as earnestly if she weighed 200 pounds. The more there is of her, the more for me to adore. But she doesn't weigh that much, so we might just as well be accurate, though in love."

DEMANDS OBEDIENT WIFE

Said Bryant: "I shall be the old-fashioned husband. And the first thing I will insist upon when married is absiute obedience from my wife at home. She must mind me. She must never oppose her will to mine. It is intended that the husband should rule, and this is the discipline I shall enforce in our flat hwich, betyeen you and me, is now being got ready for us far out on Beacon street, in Brookline.

"Now as to this honeymoon. Come back next January and I will tell you more. All I can say, however, is that we shall not go to Atlantic City nor to any of those 'swell' places.

"Miss Card and I—once married—will not go to Atlantic City because I fear the competition of the other, younger fellows. They would try to get her from me—and there's not going to be any philandering in the Bryant family. Mrs. Bryant will be mine, and mine alone. I will see to that, never fear. And, since discretion is the better part of valor, I will be careful to keep her from temptation—you may depend on that."

NO MONEY FOR TOBACCO.

The interview was interrupted by congratulations for Bryant from the marketmen of Faneuil Hall. One approached with three matches. "I have the matches all ready, John," he hinted, "against those betrothal cigars. It is usually the custom for the happy engaged man to treat his friends."

Bryant was on his toes and talking loudly. "You go on with yourself," he said. "How do you expect me to furnish free smokes for all you greedy ones here at the market? I'm broke, I tell you. Just bought her a diamond engagement ring, price $700. No money left for tobacco."

Bryant, from the wisdom of his 81 years, gives a little philosophy to his friends. "Get married," he advises, "the companionship of a true, loving, capable woman—mind, I said capable—is better than loneliness, even if you can save a little more money alone."

"To men of my age, with grown children, I say, 'get married nevertheless, and don't ask anybody.'

"Your precious little wife is your own affair, I guess. Your children never asked you when they got married, did they?"

In conclusion, with vigor and a trifle of shyness, winking his eye, he refused to tell just when he would be married. "Sometime before the snow flies," he said.

"And you might tell the world for me that it's no doddering, gray-beard that's going to lead Miss Card, the best little woman in the world, to the altar. I may be eighty-one, but I am a better man than I was at forty. I don't look a day over fifty, everybody tells me, and as for feeling—say, I feel like a boy of twenty. And, when you get down to analysis, that's all I am, for the saying has established itself 'a man is as young as he feels.' And I—well—I feel very young."

AMERICAN SCHOONER IS DAMAGED IN COLLISION

LOCHINVAR FROM BAY STATE WEDS NEW YORK BEAUTY

Mrs. Charles Thurlow, Jr., who was Miss Hope Malcolm, talented New York society belle.

It takes men from Massachusetts to thaw the icy indifference of New York's reigning beauties and put romance in their lives. Charles Thurlow, Jr., is the latest Bay State Lochinvar to raid the metropolis, carrying off Hope Malcolm, one of the "toasts of the town," as his prize.

The new Mrs. Thurlow, who is destined to become one of the leaders of the younger set in Massachusetts, is one of the prettiest, smartest and most talented of New York's society belles. Scores of admirers had attached themselves to her train, been reduced to despair by her aloofness and joined the growing society of her ex-lovers before the Newburyport man entered the lists.

She is the daughter of Mrs. George I. Malcolm of No. 116 East Sixty-third street, and since her debut a few years ago, she has been a great trouble to society editors, who have had her successively engaged to everybody from foreign princelings to domestic cattle kings.

The wedding was colemnized in the fashionable St. James Church in upper Madison avenue, and Miss Malcolm was given in marriage by her brother, J. Benham Malcolm. Among the ushers were John Thurlow, Clement Burnholme, Benjamin Pittman and A. Gordon Balch.

Mr. Thurlow is a Harvard graduate of the class of 1912, and served overseas as an aviator for more than a year.

FARRAR'S GEMS DAZZLE COAST AUDIENCES

Boston Diva's Million-Dollar Jewels Win Admiration on and Off the Stage

San Francisco, June 27.—Geraldine Farrar is dazzling Frisco and other Pacific coast cities with her wonderful colllection of jewels, valued at $1,000,000.

The golden-voiced prima donna has a perfect passion for beautiful jewels and has a world-beating assortment of diamonds, pearls, rubies and other precious stones. She takes delight in wearing them on all possible occasions, either on or off the stage, and says she gains both pleasure and inspiration from them.

A peerless rope of pearls for which Farrar paid a half-million dollars are a vision of splendor. Emerald, clasps, beset with diamonds, fastens the rope of pearls.

A pear shaped diamond ring set in platinum, the latest creation of the jeweler's art, valued at thousands of dollars, is taken off by Milady Farrar and tossed on her dresser as if it were worth but a hundred dollars.

Writers of South Sea Islands fiction weaved fantastic stories about the rose pearls. Farrar has a red rose pearl set in a ring, a pearl that fairly hypnotizes.

"I paid $10,000 for this," she explained, and her intonation was like that of a lass telling about the purchase of a best seller. A pearl sugar loaf ring is among the vast collection.

Farrar gets keen enjoyment out of wearing her dragonfly ring. She named it such, it being a large emerald, scintillating the green of centuries, cut to the shape of a butterfly and surmounted by two white diamonds of perfect cut.

A servant is ever on guard and at night the jewels are placed in a steel safety vault.

CONGRESS WILL ACT ON PROTEST OF HOUSEWIVES

Plans Sweeping Investigation of the High Cost of Living

By International News Service.

Washington, June 27.—Housewives' protests against the high cost of living are reaching Congress in such numbers that an investigation was being planned today.

Senator Gronna of North Dakota, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, stated today that another probe of the packing industry would be undertaken by his committee as soon as appropriation bills are out of the way.

The Kendrick bill, providing for government regulation of the packers, will be made the vehicle for the investigation which will be broad in its scope and include not only an inquiry into the cost of meats, but other foodstuffs. The Kenyon bill, which also is before Congress, provides for regulation of large firms dealing in foodstuffs and hearings on this bill will be in the nature of a general probe of food costs.

That there is a movement throughout the country among housewives for governmental steps to reduce living costs, is evident from the large number of protests being received each day by the members of Congress. Senators and representatives are flooded with letters asking that an investigation be made.

The proposed investigation will extend not only to the large packing firms which have been investigated before by Congress and other governmenta departments, but will also include some of the smaller firms. The recently formed combine or association of independent packers will come under the inquiry, it was stated.

"SOME CITY," SAYS VICTIM OF THIEVES IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Mo., June 27.—"Some city," John P. Griffen, a Missouri Pacific conductor, told the police here, after having been here a few hours.

He said that soon after his arrival a negro woman stopped him and asked the time. Later he learned his purse containing $35, a $100 check and an annual pass was gone.

Some time later Griffen had a drink with two strangers. He gave a $2 bill to the bartender. The strangers grabbed the change, $1.46, and fled.

DESERT "UNCLE TOM'S" SHOW FOR U. S. NAVY

Salina, Kan., June 27.—Uncle Sam's naval recruiting officer here almost disrupted an "Uncle Tom's Cabin" show when more than half of the male members of the troupe made a rush to get into the navy. Only two were able to make it—the cook and the clown. The others were unable to show their ages were within the navy limits, or their physical condition precluded their acceptance. Had the others made the "riffle" the show would have had to lay over here until new players could be secured.

WIFE'S BLUE EYES COST HUSBAND JAIL TERM

Indianapolis, Ind., June 27.—Mrs. William Lyles appeared in City Court here with blue spots around her naturally black eyes.

"Judge, he knocked me down and stamped on me," she told the court.

"Judge, she smeared coal oil on me, and when I woke up she was holding a torch over me ready to burn me up," said Lyles.

"One hundred days on the penal farm for you, Mr. Lyles," said the judge.

WEALTHY FARMER OF BILLERICA IS MISSING

The police of Greater Boston have been requested by Dr. Harold D. Diehl of No. 35 Edgemere road, Quincy, to assist in locating his father-in-law, Alexander Taylor, seventy years, a wealthy farmer of Billerica, who left his Billerica farm early yesterday apparently bound for Quincy to visit his daughter. He is described as being five feet, eight inches, 135 pounds, white hair, full shaven. He wore a dark gray suit, dark gray soft hat and black shoes.

THREE BOSTON WOMEN IN Y. D. HUT AT LE MANS

Three Greater Boston women are on the all-feminine staff of the "Yankee Division" Y. M. C. A. hut at Le Mans, France, built from material furnished by York Harbor, Me., citizens, according to information received here today. They are Misses Gilberta De Vine, Quincy, Reba Ullion, Boston, and Phoebe Ropes, Danvers. Thousands of returning soldiers are being entertained at this hut.

FUNERAL FUND GONE, QUINCY MAN ARRESTED

Captain Goodhue of the Quincy police arrested John Sartoro of No. 4 Doble street of that city, charged with the larceny of about $75.

It is alleged by the police that Sartoro solicited funds from several persons for the supposed purpose of burying a young man who had died without sufficient means to pay his funeral expenses, and, having received money for this purpose, diverted it to his own use.

BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE WATCHING DE VALERA

London, June 27.—The duration of Professor De Valera's visit in America depends wholly upon De Valera himself is the statement of an official of the British Foreign Office. The British government is not considering any request for the deportation of De Valera as long as he does not preach what the British government considers dangerous sedition of attempt to enlist recruits for armed rebellion in Ireland.

Buttermilk Day for Nation Announced for July 1

Something new always in the air.

National Buttermilk Day is announced for July 1 by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Under the title "Popularization of a Good Drink Aim of Observance," the department announces the following regarding buttermilk.

One of the best drinks in the world, nutritious, palatable, and full of zest and vim. The man who drinks buttermilk regularly and copiously is doing a good turn for himself.

Buttermilk Day will remind many people of this drink, introduce it to others and be the beginning of a greater consumption of buttermilk.

It is pointed out that, while straight buttermilk is an excellent drink, there are a number of delicious combinations. Buttermilk lemonade is obtained by adding the juice of two or three lemons to a quart of buttermilk, with sugar to taste.

So get on the buttermilk wagon, July 1.

TO PUSH WORK FOR CHURCH RESTORATION

Presbyterian New Era to Spend $500,000 This Year in War Zone

Restoration of devastated Protestant Churches in the war zone will be pushed at once by the Presbyterian Church in the United States, according to plans perfected at Presbyterian headquarters, No. 156 Fifth avenue, New York, said Dr. William Hiram Foulkes, general secretary of the Presbyterian New Era Movement today, in announcing details.

The total amount to be spent this year by the Presbyterian Church in this cause is $500,000. One-half will be sent among those Protestant bodies in France and Belgium which are accredited agencies of the evangelical churches in those countries, the money to be spent directly by the agencies themselves for the salaries and equipment of pastors, the training and care of students for the ministry, the rebuilding of churches and manses, support of schools and theological institutions directly connected with the agencies to which funds are sent, for for co-operative community activities.

About one-fourth of the fund will be similarly appropriated to the proper agency for the Waldensian Church of Italy, including specific gifts made directly to the Waldensian Church by individual Presbyterian givers.

About one-fourth of the fund will be similarly spent among Protestant bodies other than Presbyterians in the war zone.

Monthly remittances will be made to the agencies which it has been determined to assist, and these agencies will be required to make public full accounting and frequent reports. This relief work is to be conducted with a minimum of administrative expense, as the chairman, treasurer and secretary of the Presbyterian General Assembly's Committee in charge of the work will serve without compensation.

None of the funds will be used for any members of the committee to make trips to Europe, but in case it proves necessary for any representative to visit Europe, special provision will be made for such expense.

BOSTON HAT DEALER DIES IN N. Y. THEATRE

New York, June 27.—Robert W. Williamson of Boston, a guest at the Manhattan Hotel, died in the Booth Theatre while attending the performance of "The Better Ole." He was taken ill and was assisted from his seat by an attendant. An ambulance was summoned, but Mr. Williamson died before its arrival.

Robert W. Williamson was a senior member of the firm of Williamson & Sleeper, dealers in ladies' hats at No. 368 Congress street and lived at 1080 Beacon street, Brookline, with his wife and two daughters.

SOCIALIST TOO BUSY TO PROVIDE FOR HIS WIFE

Cherokee, Okla., June 27.—Socialism so absorbed the time and thought of Joe Otti that he failed to provide properly for his wife, according to divorce charges.

Mrs. Jessie Otti brought suit in the local court, alleging gross neglect of duty and failure to provide, and asks that her maiden name be restored. Otti is prominent in this part of the State as a radical Socialist.

FINDS DETECTIVE LURED WOMAN HE ARRESTED

New York Judge Criticises Police Methods, Reversing Judgment

New York, June 27.—Stinging criticism of methods used by the police in connection with the arrest of women charged with soliciting were voiced by Judge William H. Wadham when he reversed the conviction by Magistrate Bruce W. Cobb of Mrs. Louis Hutchins, a widow residing in New Haven and New York.

Mrs. Hutchins, an entertainer who has devoted much time to work among soldiers, who is the mother of an eight-year-old boy, and whose good character and respectability were testified to by a number of prominent people, was entirely cleared of the charge upon conviction of which she had been placed on probation for a year.

The clearing of Mrs. Hutchins of the charge lodged against her was the fourth reversal of the conviction of innocent women found guilty in police courts upon the unsupported testimony of police officers within a few days.

DINED WITH DETECTIVE.

Mrs. Hutchins went to Rector's with an English army officer friend the night of January 10. There several other men were introduced to her. She testified that when she left Rector's she started to enter a taxi to go home when Detective Thomas Cassidy of Inspector Dominick Henry's staff accosted her.

Believing him to be one of the men she had just met she accepted his invitation to go to Churchill's for supper. The meal over she again got into a taxi. The detective jumped in beside her and placed her under arrest. Ever since her conviction upon what she characterized as a "monstrous charge" the widow has been striving to have her name cleared.

Judge Wadham said in reversing the conviction:

"It is conceded that a police officer assigned to special duty to protect the moral standard required by the code, while on duty engaged in conversation with a young woman and thereafter took her to a restaurant, and that while in this place the police officer and the defendant had supper together.

"It does not appear in the record whether this was paid for by the police officer out of public funds or from private funds. Thereafter a cab was entered with the ostensible purpose of taking the defendant home. It is alleged by the people, through this officer, that the defendant acted in a manner which brings her within the provisions of the statute.

DETECTIVE AIDED "CRIME."

"It is unnecessary to examine whether or not the evidence which was the uncorroborated testimony of the police officer, if believed, would establish this charge beyond a reasonable doubt for the reason that the method of procuring the evidence offends the public conscience.

"If any offence was committed the officer aided and abetted, if he did not procure its commission.

"Officers of this city are not employed to accost women and take them into public restaurants and spend the evening with them for the purpose, if possible, of thereafter having them commit an offence and arresting them.

"The act on the part of the policeman is so much more indecent than anything that the woman would have committed that he does not come into court on his own statement in a manner which warrants belief in his testimony.

"Judgment is reversed and the complaint is dismissed."

DEMAND HOUSE ACT ON PROFITEER AID CHARGE

Washington, June 27.—The Senate has called upon the House to take action on a speech made in the House by Representative Ben Johnson of Kentucky, said to reflect upon Senator Pomerene of Ohio. Senator Robinson of Arkansas introduced a resolution calling for action in the House which was adopted unanimously by the Senate. Representative Johnson, in his speech, charged that "A man from Ohio" had aided profiteers in Washington and charged that the action of "the man from Ohio" had been of aid to the friends of Germany.

SCOTCH GIRL ON WAY TO HUB TO WED NAVY MAN

There wasn't time for W. J. Jacuburak, chief quartermaster of the U. S. battleship Florida, to marry Miss Jean Hay of Glasgow, because he was ordered to sea on the eve of the wedding.

Therefore Miss Hay is to visit Boston, where the ceremony will take place. She is a passenger on the steamship Masilia, which sailed from the Scottish port a few days ago, and Mr. Jacuburak, whose home is at No. 108 St. Botolph street, will claim her at the immigration station.

RED CROSS FAKERS FOUND IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, June 27.—Warning against the fraudulent use of the American Red Cross symbol and name has been issued here by the Southwest Chapter of the Red Cross. The statement said both are being used to promote many schemes, even in commercial enterprises, and that men in uniform have been selling tickets, saying that part of the receipts were to be used by the organization. The Red Cross charter prohibits the use of its name or emblem for commercial purposes.

JURY STILL OUT IN WILKINS MURDER

Aged Doctor, Accused of Slaying Wife, Anxiously Awaits His Fate in Mineola Court

Mineola, L. I., June 27.—At 1:15 this morning the jury in whose hands rests the fate of Dr. Walter K. Wilkins was still deliberating. At 2 o'clock the jury room door opened, but only to send out for coffee. This, some thought, was an indication that the jurors themselves felt an agreement would not be soon reached.

Meanwhile, the aged physician remained crouched in his chair, sound asleep.

"Well, I hope it won't be a hung jury, anyway," said Dr. Wilkins to an attendant earlier in the night, as he stood by a window in the lawyers' ante-room of the County Court awaiting his fate at the hands of the jury.

The aged defendant's uncertainty as to his fate did not prevent him from eating a hearty dinner and he appeared altogether cheerful as he chatted with his guard.

The flowers and shrubbery in the well-kept courtyard absorbed a good deal of the accused physician's attention. He spoke of their beauty and said he wondered if the trees and flowers at his Long Beach home were as well cared for now. It was at Long Beach that his wife was murdered on the night of February 27.

Dr. Wilkins, who had perked up noticeably during the strong appeal for his life made to the jury by his counsel, Charles N. Wysong, was in apparent need for the heart stimulant he was reported to have been taking during the closing days of his trial when District Attorney Charles R. Weeks was addressing the jury.

As the district attorney sought to tear apart the fabric of the defense's testimony shred by shred, accusing the aged physician with having done his wife to death cold-bloodedly and premeditatedly, Dr. Wilkins' jaw sagged and he slumped somewhat in his seat.

Supreme Court Justice David N. Manning's charge to the jurors, an absolutely impartial discussion of the essentials of the evidence, appeared to renew the defendant's spirits somewhat. And when the judge's charge was completed late in the day and the jury had been instructed to deliberate a while, then have dinner and return to its deliberations, Dr. Wilkins, while nervous, appeared hopeful.

2D SUNDAY COMMUNITY CONCERT ON THE COMMON

The experimental Sunday Community Concert conducted by the B. Y. M. C. Union on Boston Common last Sunday evening was so successful that it will be repeated next Sunday evening, June 29, at Monument Hill, beginning at 5:30 o'clock.

The program will include instrumental music by a brass quartet, community singing with service unit song leader, instructive motion pictures, patriotic features and silent talks with information bearing upon subjects of current interest.

PLAN TO SAVE OLD TOWN MEETING HOUSE

Plans for the preservation of the historic building that once served as the Dorchester town meeting house, and where the first town meeting in the United States was held, are now being considered by the City Council.

The building, now in a dilapidated state, is located at Pond and Cottage streets, and the Council has been urged to prevent its demolition by arranging for the purchase of the old structure.

DAYLIGHT SAVING BILL GOES TO CONFERENCE

Washington, June 27.—The House has accepted the Senate amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill repealing the daylight saving law. The bill was sent back to conference, however, when the House refused to approve the Senate's appropriation of $100,000 for inspection of horsemeat, unless it be stipulated that the horsemeat be branded as such.

MINARD'S OL-IN-OL REMOVES ROAD OIL CLEANS [illegible] AUTOMOBILES

She appeared more at ease when her chair was removed from the witness enclosure and placed back in its wonted position near her attorney, Daniel J. Daley.

Mrs. Skeels' told of her treatment while at the local jail by Dr. Manahan. It was thought wise at one time to engage another doctor. Dr. Sullivan was called in and later Dr. Sargent. Dr. Walker treated her, she said, while she has been staying at the Lundgren home in Andover.

Mrs. Lundgren could not recall whether she could see her counsel while she stayed at the hospital. She admitted that she saw Mr. Daley at the jail. She saw Mr. Lundgren at the hospital but she was allowed at first to remain at the door of her room. She did not recall whether or not she had asked Mr. Lundgren to have Miss Winslow call at the hospital to see her. The night before her arrest she saw Mrs. Morse but denied that she had said that both she and Mrs. Morse were likely to get into trouble about the Gay poisoning. Witness said that she had heard that the body of Miss Gay had been exhumed but she had not heard about the finding of the poison.

TELLS ABOUT SOLUTION.

Mrs. Lundgren said she arrived from New York at noon the day before she was arrested. She said that Dr. Walker had told her many times that she should not use her legs as they were in a dropsical condition. She tried to walk during the past few weeks by catching hold of pieces of furniture in her room. She has eaten solid foods since returning from the hospital where she underwent an operation. So far as she knew there were no police officers who went to the house in New Jersey after they took the Fowlers solution.

"Was the stuff you had mixed with water still there?" asked the District Attorney. "I don't think I kept it after the rash was gone," said Mrs. Lundgren. She did not recall whether she had thrown it away or how much of the solution was left. She was not aware that it was sugar of lead when she mixed it. There was no label on it to her knowledge. A package was exhibited by the attorney general. She said it was similar to that but not in size. She said she might have got other packages from the druggist in the form of powders. She said that the druggist suggested a wash for her face, saying "dissolve this in a pint of water. You understand 'for external use only'" He sold her some castor oil and some absorbent cotton. She stated that she had purchased Fowlers solution and it was not marked poison.

Q.—Do you recall when you read in medical books about Fowler's solution? A.—I never read about it.

Q.—Did you not testify that you told Mr. Griffin that you had read about Fowler's solution in medical books? A.—I said I learned how much to take.

Q.—Did you say anything to Mr. Griffin about a woman in Ohio who had a baby, telling you about Fowler's solution? A.—I simply told of Miss Gay's telling me.

Q.—Did you learn of Fowler's solution from an Ohio woman? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you hear it contained arsenic? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you learn it contained arsenic by reading medical books? A.—I learned it when Mr. Osteroff took down his book.

Q.—The first time you heard it contained arsenic was from Mr. Osteroff? A.—No; Miss Gay and I discussed it.

Q.—Did Mr. Osteroff say: "Madam, this contains a fatal drug?" A.—No, sir.

Mrs. Lundgren said that she had bought Fowler's solution in Andover and in Lawrence. She did not recall the druggist asking her name, but she remembered getting ten cents' worth of the poison. She did not recall where in Lawrence or Andover she bought it. She recalled being on her way to the drug store and forgetting the name and went back.

She denied emphatically that she had told Mrs. Morse to give Miss Gay quinine tablets. She never heard of the removal of the tablets from the room until it was testified to in court. Witness recalled her shipping things to New Jersey in the presence of Miss Gay. The Attorney-General questioned her at length as to when the shipments were made relative to Miss Gay's last sickness.

KEPT CHART ON PATIENT.

Witness stated that she kept a chart concerning Miss Gay's illness. She considered Miss Gay her patient after Mrs. Morse left, "to a certain extent."

Mrs. Lundgren was shown a piece of lace which was said to have been taken from the Gay residence. After she had examined it in her hands she was asked as to its value. Handing it back to the district attorney, she replied: "It has intrinsic value to one who loved her mother."

She readily identified the shawl she sent to her mother two years after Mr. Skeels' death. She said she was in mourning for Mr. Skeels for five years.

Lexington Farm Now Paradise for Poor Hub Children

Lexington, June 27.—The Winning Farm, off Lowell street, in this town, will be opened for the season, next Monday morning when the first of five groups of poor children from the South End of Boston will arrive at the farm for an outing.

The farm is conducted under the direction of the South End House of Boston, and Miss Elizabeth Bunker of Auburn, Me., a graduate of the School of Domestic Science, will be the matron. There will be 23 girls in the first group, accompanied by three counsellors, young women from the Wheelock School in Boston, and they will stay here twelve days. While at the farm they will have a vacation outing.

Some work is provided for the children, who will take care of their own rooms during their visit. Of the five groups of children, the first three will be girls, and the last two boys, each group made up of about two dozen children. The season will close on Labor Day.

SOMERVILLE ICE IS 10 CENTS HIGHER

The novel explanation that ice in Somerville is to be increased ten cents per hundred pounds July 1 "to conserve the supply" was made today by an official of the Fresh Pond Ice Company.

He declared that people have not been careful about the use of ice and that unless there is a radical change in their attitude there will soon be none available in Somerville except for hospitals. So Mr. Somerville Man must prepare to dig down for that extra dime next Tuesday.

RATS DESTROY 100 BOOKS IN WORCESTER SCHOOL

Worcester, June 27.—Worcester's School Committee has mobilized a force of men to wage war on rats in the High School of Commerce. It was discovered today that about 100 valuable books had been destroyed by rodents since the closing of school. One or more rats had eaten half the words out of a big dictionary. Business Agent Joseph Beals of the Public School Department, says he will have a modern "Pied Piper" in Worcester tomorrow.

WANT SWISS TO GIVE UP PROMINENT GERMANS

By Universal Service.

Geneva, June 27.—The Swiss government will be asked to surrender about a dozen high German refugees, under the terms of articles 227 to 230 of the peace treaty, it has been learned.

TAXIS IN CRASH AT LIBRARY, ONE HURT

Harry Siegal, twenty, was badly injured, the lives of several pedestrians endangered, and two granite pillars in front of Boston Public Library overthrown today, when two taxicabs collided in Copley square and hurtled up on the sidewalk. Both cars were wrecked.

Siegal, who lives at No. 59 Deering road, Mattapan, was driving one of the taxicabs, which is owned by the Armstrong Transfer Company. The other was driven by Ralph King of No. 451 Massachusetts avenue, and was owned by the Harvard Taxi Company of No. 1380 Beach street, Brookline. Neither carried passengers.

Siegal is at the City Hospital being treated for serious scalp wounds and shock. He was proceeding through Dartmouth street when he saw another machine approaching. On the slippery pavement both cars became unmanageable, and crashed into each other with terrific force. They staggered up on the sidewalk, almost "telescoped," and collapsed, after knocking down the sturdy pillars which have stood in front of the library for many years. Pedestrians who were passing managed to dodge the rocking vehicles just in time to avoid harm.

HELD ON CHARGE OF BROOKLINE AUTO THEFT

An automobile owned by Miss Marguerite Burrage of Paul street, Brookline, which was stolen last night, was recovered today in Waltham, where it had been abandoned. Later a Waltham policeman arrested one of three men in sailors' uniform. The other two escaped. The prisoner, in whose pocket the police say they found the key to the machine, was turned over to the Boston police.

Gold shipments to China from this country, made or arranged for, amount to $2,000,000 to date, and will total $10,000,000 probably before the movement is over. Shipments to Japan to date approximate $9,000,000.

Yankee Ace Plans Pacific Flight to Japan

Oakland, Cal., June 29.—Lieutenant Bert Hall, one of the surviving members of the Lafayette Flying Squadron, and an American ace with nine German planes to his credit, plans an air flight across the Pacific Ocean from San Francisco to Tokio, Japan, according to his announcement recently. Prizes of $75,000 have been offered for the flight.

Lieutenant Hall plans to begin the flight on August 1.

As soon as Hall announced his plans Oliver Kehrlein, of Oakland, offered a prize of $25,000 for the successful completion of the flight. Thomas Ince, motion picture man of Los Angeles, has offered a prize of $50,000.

NEW ENGLAND HEROES GET CROSSES

By International News Service.

Washington, June 27.—Award of the Distinguished Service Cross to seventeen officers and men of the A. E. F. and to four members of the French army for "acts of extraordinary heroism" was announced by the War Department today. Among the awards made by General Pershing were:

First Lieutenant Royal H. G. Smith, South Gorham, Me.

Sergeant Thomas W. Murphy, New Haven, Ct.

Sergeant John Hussey (deceased), Holyoke, Mass.

Sergeant Frederick J. Hawke, East Greenwich, R. I.

Distinguished Service Medals have been awarded twelve officers for rendering services of conspicuous value, the War Department also announced. The officers honored are:

Major-General C. D. Rhodes, member of interallied commission at Spa.

Major-General William H. Hays, in command of the 28th Division.

Major-General Robert L. Howse, commanding the Third Division.

Brigadier-General T. Q. Donaldson, inspector-general of service of supply.

Brigadier-General William Mitchell, commander air service, First Army.

Brigadier-General W. W. Harts, in command of district of Paris.

Colonel John H. Hughes of inspector-general's department, service of supply.

Colonel John H. Parker, instructor machine gun school at Langres.

Colonel M. C. Shallenberger, assistant chief of staff, Third Corps.

GIRL SHOOTS SWEETHEART AND SELF

New Bedford, June 27.—Maddened by jealousy, twenty-two-year-old Olive Grace shot John S. Neves in the arm during a quarrel while they were auto riding early today, then turned the gun on herself and placed a bullet above her heart. She may die.

The shooting occurred on a lonely stretch of road outside this city, and the first the authorities knew of it was when Neves, one arm bandaged and bleeding, drove the car up to the police station and carried his unconscious sweetheart into the building. She was rushed to St. Luke's Hospital, where he is also being attended.

Miss Grace is a stenographer, and Neves, who is twenty-five, is a garage manager. He told the police that their romance had been hopelessly shattered by the violent form Miss Grace's jealousy took, and that he would prefer charges against her if she recovered.

The girl recovered consciousness long enough to tell a rather pitiful story to the authorities in justification of her act, and her only regret seemed to be that she had not killed both her suitor and herself.

She said: "We have been going together for five years. I have been almost his slave during that time, and have scarcely looked at another man. But he has felt free to philander with every pretty girl he met.

"If he showered favors on other women it was all right, but if I walked to the postoffice with a boy I grew up with he would go into a paroxysm of jealousy and demand an explanation.

"Last night he invited me out to ride and brought up some trifling thing which he disapproved of, and proceeded to chastise me as if I were his property. I retorted that he was not being fair with me, and he made it brutally plain that there must be one mode of conduct for me, another for him.

"The injustice of the whole thing came over me, and I shot him and tried to kill myself."

Before lapsing into unconsciousness Miss Grace denied that the double-shooting had been premeditated, and pointed out that it was at Neves' request that she went riding with him.

FLOODED RIVERS CAUSE WEST VIRGINIA DAMAGE

Charleston, W. Va., June 27.—As a result of three inches of rainfall over the Kanawha and Elk River watersheds during the last forty-eight hours, both streams are overflowing here today and reports from the more mountainous regions indicate a heavy loss of property. Trains are not running at all on the coal and coke line. Railroad officials said today they did not know how much damage had been done as all telegraph and telephone lines up the Elk Valley were down. The sudden rise in the river did much damage to small craft.

LEGION STRONG IN FIGHT ON BOLSHEVISM

Ex-Service Men Forming Posts Rapidly to Resist Enemies of Law and Order

By G. F. GILBODY.

Dr. Fred Bogan, formerly a Yankee Division major (but all titles are now dropped per order of the Legion), will gather all the ex-soldiers, sailors and marines of the Ward 21 section tonight in the Library Building, Codman square, and form a post in the Legion. A number of speakers will be present.

James F. McGrath, temporary chairman of the Roslindale post, has called a meeting tonight in the Municipal Building, Roslindale. All ex-service men of that section of the city are urged to be present as important business will come before the meeting.

POST IN MELROSE.

Melrose's veterans formed a post in the City Hall and entertained Mayor Adams, John F. J. Herbert, chairman of the State organization, and Sergeant Leo Spillane, the temporary State secretary.

The charter for the Newton post was issued yesterday by the State officers and carries the number 48.

The Brighton-Allston post of the Legion have nominated the following officers: William Doherty and William J. Donahue, commander; Carl Wright, vice-commander; John J. Burke, financial officer; William McKenney, historian; Jeremiah Crowley, Arthur Kiley and William Cross, adjutant. It was voted to keep the present name for the post until the Fall. The election will be held July 8.

Post No. 23 of Salem elected Frank S. Perkins, a former field officer of the Yankee Division, commander, at a meeting in Now and Then Hall which was crowded to its capacity. L. Eugene Dower, Jr., was elected vice-commander; J. A. Kennedy, adjutant; John J. Caulfield, financial officer; Henry A. Sullivan, historian; D. Scoville Clark, P. F. Dalton, Joseph Flood, Robert F. Gibbons, Joseph Lalor, David M. Little, Joseph F. Pelletier, Harold M. Perkins, James H. Shortell, John Wentzell and James Woods constitute the executive committee.

JAMAICA PLAIN ORGANIZES.

Jamaica Plain veterans have organized the Michael J. O'Connor Post, with Gaspar Bacon, national treasurer of the American Legion, as temporary commander. The post was named after Colonel Michael J. O'Connor of Carolina avenue, Jamaica Plain, who was killed in action.

The first step taken to organize the Boston policemen into a post in the Legion was taken when Patrolman John F. McInnes of Station 2 procured an application blank for a post. He intends to interest all members of the force who have been in the service in the Legion. It is probable that the organization will be known as the "Edward O'Connell Post," in memory of the late Ensign Edward O'Connell, a former member of Station No. 1.

WAR BOOK BY BERT FORD IS OUT

Gripping Narrative of New England Troops at Front Tells Inside Facts

Bert Ford's book is out.

"The Fighting Yankees Overseas" is the title.

The first volumes left the bindery Wednesday noon. Orders had been piling up. The book was placed on the market at once.

Early sales were gratifying. They forecasted success for a volume that is an important addition to the military annals of New England.

"The Fighting Yankees Overseas" is a patriotic, accurate, absorbing, human-interest "close-up" of the accomplishments and sacrifices of the men of the Yankee Division.

No New England home should be without one. The book tells everything you want to know about the New England troops in France.

It is written in the vivid, entertaining style of Mr. Ford, who was the only war correspondent from New England fully accredited with the American Expeditionary Forces and the British armies.

While so-called "special" correspondents were warming their heels in Paris, waiting for passes which would enable them to visit certain divisions for periods of a day or two, Mr. Ford, enjoying full credentials, was living at the front and reporting daily developments for the International News Service, one of the three big news agencies that feeds all the newspapers in the United States and Canada.

AT THE FRONT FROM THE START.

He didn't have to take anybody's word for it or to indulge in flights of fancy. He was up against the grim, hard facts seven days every week. He was at every fight in which the Americans took part. And he gave you the news by cable on the day it happened. His were first-hand observations and impressions and you get the benefit of them all in the thirty-five chapters of his book.

No war correspondent on the western front saw more or had more thrilling experiences.

A WORK OF ART.

Norman E. McPhail, treasurer of the Atlantic Printing Company, No. 201 South street, publisher of "The Fighting Yankees Overseas," has produced a work of art. It is a masterpiece of printing. The type is clear and delightfully pleasant to the eye. Mr. Ford has avoided the dull, stereotype style of a history. He has side-stepped army technicalities.

He has told his story in narrative form, in a style that can be understood and enjoyed by school children. His book is a glowing tribute to the success of New England arms in the greatest war in history.

He tells you of the work and achievements of every branch of the service. He recounts worth-while incidents and exploits. He gives you 260 pages of sound reading matter. He gives hitherto unpublished statistics and facts about the Meuse-Argonne battle, the greatest battle ever fought by an American army.

SEND FIREMEN OF THREE TOWNS FOR SMALL BLAZE

Bedford, June 27.—The fire departments of this town, Concord and Lexington were called out for a slight fire in the attic of the home of Laffin brothers, on the Concord road, in this town.

The mix-up is said to have been caused through faulty telephone messages. Men about the place formed a bucket brigade and had the fire out by the time the Bedford firemen arrived. Neither the Lexington nor Concord fire apparatus reached the blaze, as they were notified of the mistake.

MISS PUFFER TO GO IN EXILE ON COAST

Arrest Is Expected in $5,000 Robbery That Shattered Romance With "Honey"

Ayer, June 27.—Having given up her plan of marrying "Honey" Hazzard, her negro choreman, Miss Mabel E. Puffer has decided to go to the Pacific Coast "to begin life anew." Attorney George L. Wilson, her counsel and temporary guardian, said that the wealthy woman, whose proposed marriage to her negro servant has occupied public attention for many days, will bid farewell to this town, the home of four generations of her family, within a week.

Miss Puffer refers to her departure from the old homestead here as "self ostracism." Friends intimate that she feels that she would not be able to live down the unpleasant sensation which her elopement and proposed marriage has caused.

Released from custody by Judge Atwood, upon the petition of John D. Carney, attorney for her relatives, she returned to her Sandy Pond home at once.

Attorney Wilson said that the turning points in the proposed marriage came when Miss Puffer learned that nearly $5,000 in money and household furniture were missing from her estate. Attorney Wilson stated that the larceny took place within three days prior to the couple's elopement to Concord, N. H. A thorough investigation into the alleged larceny is being made, banks in Worcester and Fitchburg being searched by the investigators. Attorney Wilson reiterated that he expects an arrest in connection with the larcenies.

Woman Had 50 Gallons of Stolen Whiskey, Police Charge

Police inspectors removed approximately fifty gallons of whiskey, a large stock of canned goods and other property in the home of Mrs. Harriet Wills, fifty-two years old, of Goethe street, West Roxbury, and Mrs. Wills was arrested charged with stealing the property, valued at $700, from Arthur P. Pearce of 44 Perkins street, Jamaica Plain, a member of the firm of A. Tomfohrde & Co., 45 Court street.

Mrs. Wills, the police say, has been a cook in the Pearce residence. Some time ago Mr. Pearce became suspicious because of the rapid disappearance of his groceries and liquor, and notified the police.

ROSLINDALE HERO'S FATHER TO GET CROSS

The Distinguished Service Cross has been awarded to Charles E. Toy of Roslindale, who was killed in action on October 23, 1918, according to a cablegram received by the Northeastern Department from General Pershing. He remained with the wounded under a sudden counter-attack by the enemy and with the fire of his rifle prevented them from falling into the hands of the enemy.

The cross will be presented by General Edwards to the dead soldier's father, Samuel H. Toy, No. 1032 South street, Roslindale.

RAYNHAM SAYS HE'LL TRY OVERSEAS FLIGHT AGAIN

St. John's, N. F., June 27.—With the Martinsyde plane almost entirely rebuilt and ready for trial flights, Captain Frederick Raynham announced that he probably would again attempt to jump off on the trans-Atlantic flight about the middle of July. Raynham's machine was smashed when he and Captain Morgan sought to follow the ill-fated Hawker-Grieve attempt.

The Handley-Page crew have been forced to postpone their start by unfavorable winds.

ARTIST CHRISTY WISHES EX-WIFE HAPPINESS

She Announces She Is Soon to Wed Canfield Ferguson, New York Lawyer

Howard Chandler Christy, the celebrated artist and specialist in feminine beauty, wishes his former wife, Mrs. Mabelle Thompson Christy, "every happiness" in her forthcoming second marriage.

This wish for her future welfare and joy was the only comment the artist would make when informed that his former wife, the original of his "American Girl," was to wed again.

Mrs. Christy is to marry Canfield Ferguson, a lawyer, of No. 55 West Eighty-second street, New York city. A license has been taken out in New York and the wedding, according to Mrs. Christy, will soon follow.

Mrs. Christy gave her age as thirty-seven. Mr. Ferguson is three years her senior.

Boston has an added interest in because her nineteen-year-old daughter, Miss Natalie Christy, is a Wellesley College girl. Now, in the vacation season, Miss Christy is in the custody of her father's parents at Duncan Falls, Ohio.

Howard Chandler Christy and Mabelle Thompson met about 1895, when Christy was struggling for artistic recognition. Miss Thompson, a girl of rare beauty, was his model. Pictures for which she posed brought the artist increasing fame. They were married shortly before the Spanish War. The artist gave his wife credit for his success.

But artistic fame was followed by marital discord. In 1909 the Christys separated. Mrs. Christy sought the custody of Natalie, then nine years old. Each parent bitterly attacked the character of the other. The Judge interrogated Natalie, but the little girl remained loyal to both parents, refusing to choose between either. She was awarded to the father.

Three years ago Christy instituted divorce proceedings, but the action was dismissed without prejudice. On March 6 of this year the artist filed a divorce suit again. He alleged that his wife consorted with persons having evil influence over her, who were to blame for the estrangement between them in the first place. He declared that she had refused reconciliation and had brought him into public ridicule and disgrace "by scrapes and troubles and escapades on her part."

Christy was granted a divorce on May 31, after a brief hearing.

PLANES MUST STAY HERE UNTIL PROBE IS ENDED

Colonel Albert S. Williams, chief of staff at the Northeastern Department, has ordered that the airplanes on Franklin Field be held here until completion of the investigation into the recent landing accident. At the same time he announced that Colonel Alfred Brandt, Eastern Department aviation officer, would be the remaining member of the board now conducting the inquiry.

Colonel Brandt arrived at the department from New York. The inquiry will be completed in a short time, and the planes may continue their flight at the completion of the investigation.

HOTEL HAS ORDERED STRIKEBREAKERS OUT

Worcester, June 27.—Protests to the management of a local hotel, made by seven representatives of organized labor who maintain headquarters in the building, against the housing of strike-breakers, resulted in an announcement that the men would vacate their rooms Saturday night.

The strike-breakers came here to work in local foundries handicapped by a strike of moulders, which is now in its seventh week.

THREE THOUSAND STRIKING CLOAKMAKERS WIN FIGHT

Following the announcement that the garment manufacturers would grant all the demands of their 3,000 striking cloakmakers, a meeting between the employers and the union officials is being held at 2 o'clock today to arrange the details of an agreement.

Early today the strikers who walked out at 10 o'clock Thursday morning to force a decision rather than wait for the result of the joint conferences with their representatives, held a general meeting at their headquarters.

SPENT HALF OF FORTUNE ON DINNERS AND DANCES

New York, June 27.—It costs money to head New York society. A society leader estimated today that the late Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, leader of New York's blue bloods, spent half her $2,000,000 fortune on dinners and dances while attaining the position of leadership. The remaining million she left largely to charity, her husband and children possessing large fortunes in their own names.

STATE TO TAKE HAND IN WORCESTER STRIKE

Worcester, June 27.—Chairman Willard Howland of the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation says that the board will take up the strike of Worcester molders next week.

There are 700 molders out in Worcester today, the strike having been deadlocked for seven weeks with neither employes nor employers willing to give in an inch.

DENIES SAVIN HILL LACKS POLICE

P. H. McCue of Dorchester Attacks Association Officials as "Un-American"

Officials of the Savin Hill Improvement Association are charged with untruths by P. H. McCue, Dorchester resident, and former officer of the Meeting House Hill Improvement Association, in connection with the charge that the Savin Hill district is inadequately policed. He writes the Boston American as follows:

"As a citizen of Dorchester practically all my life and a member and former officer of the Meeting House Hill Improvement Association for the past sixteen years, I desire to resent the remarks of some of the officers of the Savin Hill Improvement Association who claim insufficient police protection in the Savin Hill section.

"The civic organizations of this district have recently gone on record complimenting the present police captain of the district for his masterful handling of the police situation in Dorchester, among the societies being the Meeting House Hill Improvement Association.

"Another matter that surprises me greatly is the un-American attitude of some of the members and officers of the Savin Hill Improvement Association, who, forgetting what our boys did for them in winning the war when most of them took it easy at home, objected to the naming of the Savin Hill playground, McConnell park, in honor of the bravest of the officers of the 101st Regiment, Captain McConnell, who gave his life while leading a charge at St. Mihiel.

"Knowing the calibre of some of the men connected with this organization, I am not surprised at the narrowness of them, as I know the name, McConnell, does not sound good to them."

Showman Robbed of $290

Walter A. Chase, Lowell, proprietor of a show that is a part of the carnival being held in Quincy, was robbed of a strong box containing $290, his profits from the show. The box was strapped to a trunk in a tent.

LOWELL WOMAN'S WILL COVERS $14,000 ESTATE

The will of Mrs. Elizabeth Parker of Lowell, who died April 30, has been allowed.

David W. Dewar of Lowell has been appointed executor and has given a bond of $20,000. The estate is valued at $14,000.

ELEVATED FARE RAISE IS AGAIN POSTPONED

The question of change of fare was considered by the board of trustees at its regular meeting.

After a whole day's discussion no decision had been reached, and the matter was postponed for definite action until a special meeting to be held Monday next.

HONEST ALL THROUGH
$5. $6. $7. $8.
WHILE STANDING IN FRONT OF ONE OF MY STORES recently a well known shoe manufacturer said to me,—
"Emerson, why don't you mark up the retail price of your shoes somewhere near the present price of leather. You are selling shoes in your store today at retail cheaper than I can sell them at wholesale."
He was right about the price because leather has gone up about 60% since our present stock of shoes was made.
But I have always given my customers any saving I can make for them as a result of my long experience in knowing when to buy leather.
So I brand a fair and square retail price on the sole of my store shoes, during the process of manufacture—based on actual factory costs. And once stamped the price cannot be raised as it can be on a "pen and ink" price ticket.
An investment in Emerson Shoes today for your needs for the next six months will pay you 25% on your money.
Visit our store—inspect our shoes—compare our prices and values with those of other manufacturers and judge for yourself. This is your opportunity as long as our present stock lasts.

$100,000 WILL IN GLADDING LOVE TANGLE

Father of 7-Year-Old Heiress Will Wage Legal Battle for Her Custody

Providence, June 27.—A legacy of $100,000, said to have been left by the late Frank Jones of Portsmouth, N. H., in which seven-year-old Elizabeth Gladding figures, will result in a legal battle, according to Attorney William H. McSoley, who today filed a declaration in the Superior Court in connection with the Williams-Gladding love tangle.

Richard E. Williams, who is confined at the Providence County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bail, is charged with alienating the affections of Mrs. Gladding, wife of Theodore O. Gladding, wealthy Bristol oyster grower. A hearing on the cross petition for divorce by Gladding as the result of a Carpenter street lodging house raid, is scheduled for July 7.

Elizabeth Gladding is said to be the bone of contention between the Gladdings, and her father, according to Attorney McSoley, will fight for the custody of the little girl. Mrs. William A. Massey, mother of Mrs. Gladding, is said to be a niece of the deceased Portsmouth brewer.

Mrs. Gladding has a suit pending against her husband for divorce. Gladding filed a counter suit after the lodging house raid, and a suit charging alienation of affections, brought by Gladding against Williams, is still on the court docket. Attorney McSoley says the question of custody of the little girl Elizabeth is the paramount issue and will be fought to a finish. According to Rhode Island law in alination suits the plaintiff is required to pay $4 each week to the State for board in lieu of the failure of the defendant so secure bail.

WOMAN HAD QUIET SMOKE, BUT IT SHOCKED SOME

Topeka, Kan., June 27.—Clouds of smoke coming from the women's waiting room at the Rock Island depot here, caused the patrons of the room to make an investigation. Over in the corner, smoking a clay pipe peacefully, was an aged woman, all unconscious of the excitement she was causing.

When the matron told her it was not the place to smoke, the aged woman calmly went outside the depot and completed her smoke. She said she came from the mountains of Kentucky and was on her way to Nebraska.

IS DANDELION CLASSED AS A WEED OR A FOOD?

Huntington, W. Va., June 27.—Is the dandelion a weed or a food?

The answer to this question means a whole lot to West Virginians, for dandelions can be used in the manufacture of beer or wine.

Prohibition Officer Holt says that food products cannot be used in the manufacture of intoxicating liquor except for sacramental or medicinal purposes, according to President Wilson's proclamation. So if the dandelion is food it is illegal to use it in the manufacture of drinks.

MOUNTAIN LION KILLS 5 RAMS IN TWO RAIDS

Grass Valley, Cal., June 27.—For the third time within a few days a mountain lion has raided a sheep corral in the lower part of the county. Five rams, each weighing over 300 pounds, were killed in this raid. Two of the larger animals, valued at $50 each, were dragged more than 300 yards. In the two previous raids thirty-four sheep were killed.

URGE DAYLIGHT SAVING BE RETAINED

Voters Asked to Appeal to Wilson to Veto Repeal of Act

New York, June 27.—Direct appeal by the voters to President Wilson urging him to veto the repeal of the daylight saving act was urged by Marcus M. Marks, president of the National Daylight Saving Association.

"The daylight saving act," said Mr. Marks, "must be retained because it averages a saving of 25 per cent in light bills and because, according to an official statement, it saved about one and a quarter million tons of coal last Summer.

"Because the use of this extra hour of sunlight in the late afternoon has resulted in the cultivation of hundreds of thousands of home gardens, in which it is estimated more than $525,000,000 worth of foodstuff was raised.

"Because of the great advantage to health because of the extra hour of light which has been endorsed by the Tuberculosis Congress and various medical societies, and because of the great advantages to our exchanges who under the daylight saving law are in harmony with Europe.

"It is quite possible that certain adjustments in train schedules may be necessary to satisfy the farmers' objections, but isn't it much better to adjust ourselves to a detail rather than lose the tremendous general advantage in health and dollars to the country."

"Those who agree with these sentiments should communicate promptly with President Wilson who has been enthusiastically in favor of daylight saving and who, no doubt, at the present time is sympathetic to the that the masses of the people approve of it," of it."

100 PER CENT. PERFECT YOUTH IS FARMER

Martin C. Osberg of Harmony, Me., who has enlisted in the army, is the most perfect physical specimen out of 10,000 persons who have presented themselves for army service during the past few years, at this recruiting station.

"I have always worked on a farm, ate simple food and lived regularly. I haven't eaten everything. You don't get everything on a farm. I take plenty of good exercise, running and swimming.

RED TAPE IN FRANCE HALTS HEROES' WEDDINGS

Portland, Ore., June 27.—Doughboys in France will have mighty few June weddings if action reported here is any criterion.

A letter received by Mayor Baker from the registrar at Pont-a-Mousson requests that notice be posted in a conspicuous place announcing the engagement of Private Elmer N. Bales and Hortense Julia. In case no legal or parental objection follows, the marriage can then take place.

The registrar explains the method is designed to prevent hasty weddings.

Filene's Women's inexpensive DRESSES

ONE or a THOUSAND of a style?

This week Filene's opened The Street of Little Shops, a corner of Paris transplated root and branch, selling only the kind of clothes that are hard to find ready-to-wear—selling in ONES only, no duplicates.

It is not our intention to consider price in this new shop—and yet we venture to say that even here the woman who has been accustomed to pay even in the hundreds of dollars for her wraps and gowns will note a decided saving, just as does the woman who buys in the Filene Machine-Made Dress Shop where dresses are often made by the thousand to lower the price.

One way Filene prices are made lower is by charging separately for service. This eliminates unnecessary service. And by separating the cost of service from the cost of merchandise, it makes better values for charge and cash, send and carry customers alike.

When you pay for service, you are only paying for what you get. When you don't want service, you are not asked to pay for what you do not get.

Mid-summery frocks, like these, by the hundreds, in the shop of Women's Machine-Made and other inexpensive dresses, and nary a one more than $14. Judge the others by those sketched.

Lightly figured and striped VOILES, $2.25

Fresh-as-a-lily piquot-edged white organdie collars. Pin stripes or tiny figures.

Frocks of expensive VOILES, $12.75

Fine Georgette-like voiles, woven with silky stripes and plaids. SHORT sleeves, cuffed and collared with organdie.

Beaded TAFFETA, cooled with Georgette, $14

Also in messaline, copenhagen, black or navy. Henna silk embroiders its way in around the beads.

Candy-striped VOILE sash dresses, $5

Cool-looking as can be, crisped with white organdie. When did you see such a pretty frock for $5?

GINGHAMS in youthful plaids, $4

Just a simple, pocketed, belted dress, with fresh white pique collar and cuffs.

NOTE: Remarkably good striped percale house frocks, collared with plain chambrays, are $1.50. Coolest of all house and porch frocks are those of sheer striped voiles at $4 and flowery voiles at $4.50.

Toyo Panamas $2.50 to $3.50

Hat, sketched, complete, $5.50

THE STREET FLOOR SHOP suggests a dozen ways to trim them.

Large rolled edge panamas are $3.50.

The one sketched has a vari-colored folded silk band at $2, but other bands begin at 65c.

Hackle feather bands especially new in jade green, $3. Other colors, too.

White wings, white poppies, ostrich fringes and black velvet ribbon are other ideas.

Filene's—mail orders filled—street floor

JACK O'LANTERN sweaters

for the first time we believe, at $7.50

This pretty sweater, made popular by Constance Talmadge, has been quite high priced, because it had to be hand-made—knitting machines were hard to adapt to all its frills and funnies.

Here it is, however, in exactly the silhouette of the hand-made Jack O'Lantern, with sleeve puffs and ruffled tunic. French blue, American beauty, buff and salmon.

Filene's—mail orders filled—fifth floor

Women's sport coats of wool scarfs sewed together, $30

Brushed wool, shaped and tailored like a coat, retaining the straght lines of a scarf. Fringe goes around the bottom; the design of the scarf is used to good effect to give a stripe to cuff and collar, $30.

Filene's—mail orders filled—fifth floor.

Cool corsets of summer netting, $1.50

There can't be too many air holes in summer corsets if a woman is looking for comfort. These new models are lightly boned. Filene values at $1.50. Sizes are 21 to 30.

Filene's—mail orders filled—third floor

$3 is what most women pay for a cotton blouse, $7.50 for silk

Variety of styles, fine workmanship and charm, are all found together in Filene blouses at these prices, and it is at great expense of thought and labor that they are found together.

Blouse 1, sketched below, is a Filene value in dotted Swiss. The embroidered collar looks almost French, $3.

Blouse 7, sketched below, is a Filene value in Georgette crepe, an unusual blouse with deep frill in front and equally deep collar in back, $7.50.

6 Filene values in $3 blouses are sketched, and one at $7.50

Sketch 2—A voile blouse that looks hand-made a few feet away, so lavish is the use of entredeux, and so simple the long lace-edged frill, $3.

Sketch 3—One of the favorite tailored blouses, a sturdy quality of dimity with plain linen convertible collar and cuffs, edged with machine-made Irish picot, $3.

Sketch 4—In the centre, one of many fresh, cool slip-on smocks of colored voile with touches of hand embroidery, $3.

Sketch 5 — One of those plain frill blouses that custom waist shops do a big business in—at higher prices. These are $3.

Sketch 6—A type of lace and embroidery trimmed voile blouse that is always wanted. Embroidery panels show bits of color, $3.

IRELAND MUST BE FREE IF ENGLAND WANTS PEACE, SAYS PHELAN

CALIFORNIA SENATOR POINTS OUT BRITAIN'S BLUNDER

By Universal Service.

Washington, June 27.—That there can be no peace for England until Ireland is free was asserted in the Senate yesterday by Senator Phelan of California in a speech supporting the cause of the Irish delegates at the peace conference. He said:

"The Irish line is flung around the world and the insistent demand of Irishmen and lovers of freedom everywhere will compel the blunderers of Downing street to yield to a world-wide demand based upon world-wide principles which the conference and the League of Nations have established.

"Bear in mind the league consists of a union of free nations and if England does not yield to the absolutely logical case of Ireland and give her the decision then the Irish justifiably will expose England to every disadvantage in peace and war throughout the world.

"From the days of the American revolution England has been held strictly to account by America and it would not need less weight than the Irish to throw the scales of judgment against her whenever a conflict should arise. Before we entered the war we were on the very verge of a conflict with England by reason of her own acts interfering with our trade and opening the mails of our merchants.

"Therefore since Ireland cannot release herself from the English yoke nor expect any other nations to do so the public opinion of the world and her own resolution firmly held may accomplish it sooner than we may expect. It would be the wisest policy for England."

Senator Phelan undertook to justify the course adopted by President Wilson in refusing to demand recognition for the Irish delegates. He said that if he had done so it might have broken up the peace conference. He said he felt sure the President's sympathies "are with the Irish aspiration for a self-determined government."

De Valera Refutes Charges of Clericalism and Bribery by Germans

By Universal Service.

New York, June 27.—The circumstances of the ejection of Sir Charles Allom from the St. Regis Hotel, and a perusal of the letter written by Sir Charles to a morning paper after the incident, afforded considerable amusement to President De Valera of the Irish republic.

"I am glad that Americans have had an example of the British attitude toward Ireland," said De Valera. I do not wish to represent this man's action as typical of the individual Englishman, but it is typical of the British system of governing Ireland.

"In his letter he speaks of me as an advocate of revolution. I didn't know I was advocating revolution in the United States. Of course, I am advocating the overthrow of British rule in Ireland. My mission here is to obtain recognition of the government we have established in Ireland.

DEPLORES CHURCH ISSUE.

"As to the support of our cause by Catholic priests, to which this gentleman objects, the priests who are supporting our cause are acting as individuals and on the same basis as Irish laymen. Our opponents always seem anxious to bring in the religious element. We, on the contrary, avoid that. We do not question any man's religious belief.

"In my speeches I have never even thought of my opponents in the north in terms of Protestantism. They, however, try to make a religious issue out of what is not a religious issue."

"What of Sir Charles' charge that the Irish revolutionary movement is following the same lines along which German propaganda worked?"

DENIES GERMAN BRIBERY.

"Our movement has nothing to do with German propaganda. I have already denied that any German gold was ever offered to the Irish to my knowledge, and I am absolutely certain if it has been offered it has been rejected. The allegation that Germany caused trouble in Egypt, India and elsewhere in the British possessions is not supported by the evidence at hand. The similarity of the trouble in Egypt, India, South Africa and Ireland would indicate that it is due to the fact that the people of those countries are being ruled against their will rather than to German propaganda."

Regarding the hint from Paris that dominion home rule may be offered to Ireland in the near future, De Valera said:

"I hope Americans will not be deceived by any pretence of giving home rule to Ireland. Will they give us an army or a navy or control of customs, etc.? That is the test. The pretexts of England are really made to kill time. Ireland demands to be set free."

"Is there any likelihood of your being charged with treason when you return to Ireland?"

"I deny that any act of mine can be construed as treason. I am doing what I think right. Let England do what she pleases."

De Valera announced that the new republic will assume the bonds issued by the Fenian brotherhood in 1866 as a debt of honor. These bonds amounted to about $500,000.

WORCESTER GAS HIGHER IF RAISE IS GRANTED

Worcester, June 27.—The State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation is today mulling over evidence submitted at the hearing here, when experts from the Worcester Gas Light Company and representatives of the Gas Workers' Union presented their respective arguments.

The employes asserted that Lowell's rate of wages to gas workers is higher than the rate paid here, while the company contended that in all other New England cities the wages paid gas workers were not as high as those paid here.

Francis H. Dewey, vice president of the company, claimed that it would cost the company $150,000 per year if the full demands of the men were granted and that this would mean an increase from $1.15 to $1.30 in the price of gas.

ARLINGTON SCHOOL ORCHESTRA TO PLAY

The first public appearance of the Arlington school orchestra will be made this evening, at a concert to be given in the Arlington High School Auditorium, under the direction of Miss Grace Gordon Pierce, supervisor of music in the public schools of the town.

Miss Pierce last January formed instrumental classes offering instruction on any symphonic instrument to the pupils of the local schools. One hundred and fifty boys and girls registered. As a result of this musical school, an orchestra of sixty pieces has been formed.

RETURN TO WIDOW FARM HUSBAND 'SOLD FOR SONG'

Adams, June 27.—Through a decision handed down in Superior Court by Judge Morton, Mrs. Sophie Godek, who, with six small children, was left in destitute circumstances when her husband died last October, has been granted a return of property which, without her consent, was sold by her late husband to Joseph Etz and Michael Kissell. The property, which was jointly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Godek, and comprised a farm and stock, was sold to Etz and Kissell for a very small sum.

57 TO GRADUATE FROM CONCORD HIGH

Concord, June 27. — Fifty-seven students will be graduated from the Concord High School, this evening, at the annual commencement exercises in the State Armory. Colonel Robert E. Goodwin of the 101st Field Artillery, who saw much active service in France, will speak.

The diplomas will be conferred by L. W. Eaton, chairman of the school committee.

GIRL IN ST. REGIS EPISODE AND EJECTED BARONET

Miss Sheila O'Reilly, whose activities in behalf of the Irish Republic were indirectly responsible for the hurried ejection of Sir Charles G. Allom from the Hotel St. Regis in New York on Wednesday.

Sir Charles Garrich Allom, British knight, who was forcably ejected from the St. Regis for derogatory remarks to young women working for the cause of Irish freedom.

RECOVERS WEDDING RING LOST MANY YEARS AGO

Lafayette, Ind., June 27.—Twenty-eight years ago Mrs. Edward Brady, living east of here, handed her wedding ring to Marvin House, present county recorder, while she was putting on her gloves. House dropped the ring into his pocket and later lost it while working in a field. This Spring Harry Northrup was harrowing in the same field and found the ring, which was apparently none the worse for wear except for the loss of some of the smaller ruby settings.

GERMAN CREW PERISHES IN WARSHIP SCUTTLING

London, June 27.—The Evening News states the entire crew of the battleship Kaiser perished when that vessel was sunk in Scapa Flow by the Germans. Many Germans from the crews of the other ships were also drowned, it is stated.

The News asserts that the officers of the crews themselves sunk the vessels and in many cases the crews were uninformed of what was to happen.

Take Care of Hair During Summer

Perspiration Tends to Cause Scalp Disease

"Take care of the hair during the warm weather" is the warning of one Boston barber. Perspiration tends to increase the tendency to scalp disease, dandruff and lack of nutrition to the scalp.

This is the time of year when a good antiseptic hair preparation is required to keep the hair and scalp in good condition, and Noonan's Hair Petrole answers these requirements admirably.

It is really remarkable how refreshing one feels after a scalp treatment of Noonan's Hair Petrole. It's almost as refreshing as a cold bath on a warm day. The hair begins to take on new life after a few treatments, dandruff disappears and the scalp is freed from germs and sour acid accumulations.

Your barber will apply Noonan's Hair Petrole for fifteen cents. Ladies may have this wonderful scalp treatment from their hair dressers, or may apply it at home by securing a bottle of Noonan's Hair Petrole from their druggists, department stores, barbers and hair dressers everywhere. Price $1.00 bottle, or direct from T. Noonan & Sons, 38 Portland St., Boston, Mass. Tell your druggist he can get it for you from his wholesaler.

WOMEN HELPING IRELAND TELL OF BRITISH SLURS

English Propagandists in New York Try to Stem Tide of Sympathy for Erin

New York, June 27.—Charges are made today that English propagandists are at work here to offset the increasing sentiment of America in the cause of Ireland. The accusation came in comment by girls and women in charge of the booths of the Irish Victory Fund.

Attention was drawn to the alleged propaganda following the exciting incident Wednesday afternoon at the Hotel St. Regis, where Sir Charles Garrick Allom was thrown out bodily after he objected to the Irish Victory Fund booth in the lobby of the hotel.

At the Hotel Knickerbocker, Broadway and Forty-second street, Mrs. Dudley Digges, Miss Elizabeth McCarthy and the assistant manager of the hotel, Mr. Mulcahy, told this story:

"On Tuesday Colonel Angus McDonald of Toronto, Canada, registered here. He had seen service with the British Army, although born in Ireland. He noticed the booth and, striding over to us, he said: 'I would badly well like to kick your booth out of that door.' We made no reply. He then walked over to Manager Mulcahy and said: 'If you don't throw that outfit into the street I shall leave at once.'

ASKED TO LEAVE HOTEL.

"To this Manager Mulcahy replied: 'The sooner you leave, sir, the better it will be for this hotel.'

"Another Englishman on Wednesday said American opinion was dead against Ireland and we would never realize our silly dreams of a republic. He said there wasn't a single American officer in sympathy with us."

Mrs. Digges said she believed definite English propaganda against Ireland was at work in New York.

At the Hotel Astor Mrs. Thomas Hackett and Mrs. S. Tynam, in charge of a booth, told the following story through Mrs. Tynam:

"An Englishman came to me today and said: 'Of all the jokes you are the biggest laugh.' I asked him why he was in this country and not fighting, when my own brother, Michael Quinn, an employe of the New York Park Department, lay dead in Chateau-Thierry. He replied: 'I can't help it. He ought to have been dead long ago.' I asked him him his name. He refused to give it to me, but stated he was in the British secret service. He then flung down a dollar bill and said: 'Take this and go hang yourself with it.'"

ANONYMOUS INSULT.

At the Hotel Commodore Mrs. Jerome Rooney, wife of Judge Rooney, of the State Court of Claims, who manages a booth, said:

"We have been deluged with anonymous notes, some of the most insulting character. Here is one which reads: 'America owes Ireland nothing. There are people in this hotel who have relatives (American U. S. soldiers) whom the Irish stoned when they were in Ireland on their way home.'"

At the Hotel Manhattan, Miss Bessie O'Brien, who conducts a booth, stated that when she asked aid from an Englishman he replied:

"Say, if I had ten dollars to spare I would use to kick every Irish son or daughter out of this hotel."

Miss Mollie Maura stated that in the Astor a woman of English birth decried American soldiers and said their cheap uniforms could not be compared with those of the crack English.

At the Hotel Belmont Miss Mary Brennan, also conducting a booth, said in answer to a request for a donation she got this reply:

"Shut up—can't you see I'm English."

MISS O'REILLY'S STORY.

Miss Sheila O'Reilly, speaking of the unpleasant incident with Sir Charles C. Allom at the Hotel St. Regis, said:

"I could never forget what he said. But I don't mean that about his swear words. He used such a tremendously lot of new ones talking to us (Miss Mable Clayton was with me) I could never swell my vocabulary so much in one lesson."

Miss O'Reilly said his speech ran like this:

"And so you are collecting money! Do you know what this Irish rebellion means?"

"We know what the Irish revolutions means."

"Who prompts you to do this? A thieving, swindling bunch of crooks, ministers and churchmen."

Free Father of 5 for Returning Girl's 'Auto' Kisses

Worcester, June 27.—George Williams, shop superintendent of Worcester, is not guilty of attacking May Belle Hale, who jumped over the seat of a touring car into George's lap, kissed him and had the kisses returned by George. A jury in Superior Court has said so.

George, the father of five children, is through with accepting invitations to auto rides from married women, no matter how friendly they may be to the family. He has learned a lesson, he says, and it's "never again." George admitted that he could not think of May Belle's "over-the-top" stunt in the light of an assault, and that he wants to get back to work and forget it.

MOTHER WHO TRIED TO KILL DAUGHTER INSANE

Schenectady, N. Y., June 27.—Mrs. Joseph Wallace of West Sand Lake, who attempted to kill her little daughter with an axe on Wednesday, was declared insane by Dr. Alson J. Hull, jail physician, and Dr. Gilbert Fisk. Mrs. Wallace will likely be committed to the asylum at Matteawan.

The nature of the attack on the child, who is expected to die, startled the whole village. Early Wednesday the woman was taken with a violent fit of anger and, procuring an axe, struck the little girl, crushing her skull and inflicting serious injuries on the body. The husband rushed to interfere and was struck. He succeeded in overpowering his wife whom he strapped to a post.

TAUGHT EXTRA CLASSES, NOW WANT EXTRA PAY

Galena, Kan., June 27.—The school teachers of the Galena public schools have brought suit for two weeks' salary against the school board. For two weeks last Fall and Winter the schools were closed on account of the "flu" epidemic. The Board of Education endeavored to make up the lost time by having school on Saturdays. This was too strenuous, so the teachers objected, and it was stopped. Now the teachers want pay for the extra Saturdays.

HOME RULE PLAN FOR BAY STATE CAR LINE

Each Division to Be Run as Separate Railway; Managers Glad of Suggestions

The public trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company, operating the Bay State system, announced today that on and after July 1 "Home Rule" will be established in each of the twelve divisions: Chelsea, Lynn, Salem, Gloucester, Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Hyde Park, Quincy, Brockton, Taunton and Fall River. Managers will be given increased powers and held responsible for supplying the service which the people in their communities have the right to expect.

Under this new arrangement it will be as if each division were a separate railway, keeping its own accounts, and deciding what the patron wants, and either giving it to him or furnishing a good reason why it cannot be done. Complaints addressed to managers are to be given prompt and courteous attention, and suggestions for improvements will be gladly received.

The public trustees say that while it will not be possible immediately to divide the cost of service so that the fare in each division can be made what the expense of operation demands, it is their intention to put this plan into effect at the earliest possible moment, when figures thereon that can be relied upon are available.

AUTOIST GIVEN 50 DAYS FOR SPEEDING

Los Angeles, Cal., June 27.—Speeders are thinking twice before "opening 'er up" in Los Angeles these days. Justice J. Walter Hanby sentenced M. F. Jenkins to fifty days in jail for speeding without the alternative of a fine. Jenkins failed to show up in court when ordered to appear. He was said to have been stopped twice for speeding on previous occasions.

Lightning Plays Prank

Steubenville, June 27.—A bolt of lightning which tore through the roof of the home of T. R. Thompson, near here, entered a bedroom and amused itself by running around the bed, shattering the four legs and tearing out the casters.

HERE'S WHAT YOU SHOULD EAT IN SUMMER

Dr. Emerson Gives Common Sense Hints on Food and Drinks for Hot Weather

"For the man, woman or child who is overweight the best form of life insurance is to reduce, and the best time to reduce is now when the heat helps, and the long days give more time for exercise. A lot of excess flesh can be taken off this Summer with a gain in enjoyment of life through following a few simple suggestions as to diet and exercise," said Dr. W. R. P. Emerson, the Boston expert on nutrition, in an interview. Dr. Emerson directs nine nutrition clinics in Greater Boston which are restoring 300 malnutritious children to normal weight and is professor of children's diseases at Tufts College Medical School.

Branching off somewhat from his specialty Dr. Emerson gives valuable advice to make the hot Summer days more enjoyable. Incidentally he maintains that man, when his digestion is good, is the toughest animal on earth and offers as a timely hint that the best prescription for allaying the chronic indigestion due to alcoholism and popularly known as a thirst or a craving for strong drink is hot milk.

BREAD AND MILK BEST.

"For the average citizen," says Dr. Emerson, "bread and milk is about the best hot weather food. Other good things are cereals, eggs, fish, bread and butter and fruit. Berries are especially good because they are likely to be eaten with milk or cream and are not often served when green or overripe.

"In hot weather the chief errors are eating too much, eating too fast, making up for too little food at one meal with too much at the next, and washing down the food with drinks, especially with milk.

"Nature never intended that milk should be taken rapidly. It is a food, the safest and best food for the Summer, and it is at its best for children and grownups when spooned with bread or crackers. Severe cases of colic are produced by the rapid drinking of iced milk.

"For those who have been taking alcohol to excess there is nothing better than hot milk to supply the craving of the stomach which is one of the symptoms of chronic gastritis. The milk will nourish and stimulate the stomach and will relieve the indigestion which alcohol has brought about.

DRINK WATER OFTEN.

"Soda fountain drinks, if taken at all, and water should be drunk slowly, and water should be taken frequently in small amounts. We should avoid ice water, especially when we are tired. Various articles have appeared recently in popular magazines which describe how men have abused their stomachs for a considerable period and without apparent harm; but let those abuses be continued over a sufficient period of time and we get serious results.

"If, however, we must eat hurriedly the best plan is to select food that does not require mastication and to take only enough to tide us along until we have time to eat properly. Digestion will be better if we try not to make up for too little at one meal by eating too much at the next.

TIME TO REDUCE.

"Midsummer is the best time to bring down the weights. Persons who are overweight should plan to eat less now than they ordinarily require, to substitute fruit and green vegetables for foods of a higher fuel value and to take advantage of any opportunities for sea bathing, which is probably the best exercise for reducing.

"Children who are overweight need attention just as children do who are undernourished. If parents will watch a child who is overweight and keep a record of what he eats during and between meals for forty-eight hours they are likely to find that he is constantly eating more than he needs and that he has too much cream, butter, pastry and sweets.

"Now is the time to cut out a little of the child's regular diet and to substitute fruits and vegetables for high fuel foods. Nature helps the child to reduce now through giving opportunity for extra play and for sea bathing. As the child reduces in weight, his height will increase noticeably.

"Grownups as well as children are likely to eat too many sweets, especially between meals. We can take sweets after meals as a dessert without harm. Concentrated sugar is an irritant to the stomach. Soda fountain drinks and ice cream should not be allowed to take the place of regular meals."

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Some Timely Tips On Food and Drink in Hot Weather

Regard milk always as a food.

"Spoon" it with crackers or bread.

Drink it hot if you crave alcohol.

Eat more vegetables and fruit, less meat.

Keep your meals of even size.

Rest twenty minutes before dinner.

Take many small drinks of water.

Prolong your life by "reducing."

SUFFRAGISTS TO URGE HEALTHY CHILDREN

Massachusetts suffragists have voted to stand behind the bill to promote the health and physical development of children. Announcement to this effect was made following a board meeting of the Massachusetts Equal Suffrage Association.

Plans were made for a big victory celebration early next month, and Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird and Mrs. Winona Pinkham were appointed a committee to prepare a course of study in citizenship to teach the women of the State the obligation and technique of voting.

Alice Stone Blackwell, president of the organization, made an address congratulating the members on the recent victory in the Legislature. She said that the women of this Commonwealth have just embarked on the most important part of their work for suffrage.

The Boston Equal Suffrage Association is also working on plans for a celebration which will be presented at the State meeting next month. Arrangements are being made for a jubilee picnic in the near future.

WEED PATCH IS FAMOUS, THOUGH UNWELCOME

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 27.—"Please send me a few suggestions on how to rid my garden of a patch of 'Star of Bethlehem,'" wrote Dr. George W. Ely to the Bureau of Plant Industry in Washington.

"A few suggestions?" said Dr. A. A. Hansen, the government expert, after a hurried trip here. "We would like a few suggestions ourselves." And then he explained that the "Star of Bethlehem" weed is an exceedingly rare thing and there are only two or three plots of it in the whole country. It is an exceedingly mischievous pest and nothing so far known to man can divorce it from the soil once it gets a hold.

And Dr. Ely's weed patch, therefore, becomes famous.

PLAN HOTEL CHAIN FROM CANADA TO MEXICO

San Francisco, June 27.—A string of first-class hotels stretching from the Mexican border to Canada, with every house within a convenient one-day trip to the next, has been mapped out by the D. M. Linnard system. A site already has been selected for the Tacoma, Washington, hotel, which will be known as the Alexander. Plans for a hotel in Seattle also have been made and construction work is to be started soon.

AMISH DEPLORE AUTOS, BUT NOT YOUNGER ONES

New Castle, Pa., June 27.—There is great agitation in the Amish religious community near here because of the appearance of automobiles.

The younger members of the sect have taken too kindly to the flivvers, and the elders are fearful lest they devote too much of their time to worldly things. There is a quiet but determined effort to prevent the spread of the "new temptation."

PINK KIMONO AND KISSES LEAD TO DIVORCE

Former Ambulance Driver's Husband Trails Couple to Perfumed Apartment

Chicago, June 27.—Dim, shaded lights. Richly furnished apartment. An odor of exquisite perfume. A fair-haired woman in a pink, satiny negligee creation. A man. Kisses. Embraces.

Mix these ingredients, shake well and you have the marital mixture that broke up the home and domestic happiness of Robert W. Waterston and his wife, Mrs. Lola D. Waterston.

Waterston was granted a divorce last Thursday very quietly by Superior Judge John J. Sullivan.

There entered into Waterston's story another man and strong drink, to which, he said, his wife had been addicted. He told of trailing his wife and a man named Hild after he had received anonymous information that the couple were seen often together.

TRAILED TO APARTMENT.

"In January I was told she would be at Mrs. Anna Chaffin's at No. 1234 N. State street with Hild," Waterston testified.

"I followed my wife and Hild there. They left Mrs. Chaffin's about 11 and drove home to my wife's apartments at No. 4121 Sheridan road. Hild had the key and opened the door. We were across the street in an automobile.

"We saw lights flash up in the living room. We saw her in a pink kimono and Hild in his shirtsleeves. They embraced and kissed each other. About 1:30 Hild came out and drove away in a taxi."

Mrs. Chaffin was a witness for Waterston.

NOTE ADMITS HER GUILT.

"Mrs. Waterston and Hild were together often," she testified. "They always acted very affectionately. She said she loved Hild and that she wanted a divorce so she could marry him."

A letter alleged to have been written by Mrs. Waterston to her husband on April 29 was introduced. It read:

"Robert—have fully decided not to return to your home, inasmuch as I have not loved you for some months and have been unfaithful to you. Your wife. LOLA."

Mrs. Waterston was an emergency Red Cross ambulance driver during the war.

ELIZABETH B. WELLS DIES AT BACK BAY HOME

Mrs. Elizabeth Brewer Wells, wife of Wellington Wells, a prominent Boston lawyer and member of the Legislature from the Back Bay district, died suddenly at her home at No. 171 Bay State road.

Mrs. Wells was the daughter of the late Justice David J. Brewer of Washington, D. C., and was born in Leavenworth, Kan., when her father was connected with the district court there. She was well known socially in Boston.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Wells leaves three young children, Miss Henrietta, age thirteen; Wellington, Jr., age eleven, and Virginia, age six.

EXECUTOR NAMED FOR LOWELL MAN'S ESTATE

The will of Hiram E. Huse of Lowell, who died April 24, has been allowed.

PUTS A PUNCH IN ARMY DRIVE ON COMMON

Tommy Ryan, Veteran Pugilist, a Lively Addition to the Campaigners

The punch was put into army recruiting today at Liberty Cottage. Tommy Ryan punched the bag and gave an interesting talk.

"You want to get the good punch at the right time," said Tommy with the perspiration standing out in beads on his face after he showed what this means at the punching bag.

"You can box in the old style. You've got to get new ideas in your head how to put your weight and speed into action. Now when you get in the army, you learn all this. You get it from boxing. When a fellow comes up against you, it will depend whether you can fix him at once with your skill. You've got to get in your famous double work. You must stand on your toes and use your eye.

"Use your fists well, if you are going to use them at all. Don't be a molly coddle, and above all, don't try to be tough. This is taken out of you when you get into the army. I've been in the American army for two years and have seen much of what the training gives the average young man.

"It does wonders for him. It gives him something useful to think about instead of hanging around the corners of the street waiting for something to turn up."

MAJOR BLAIR SPEAKS.

Major Gist Blair, judge-advocate at the army headquarters on Chauncy street, warned the young men in front of him:

"This may be the last timeyou'll have to join the army," he said.

"You may not be asked again. This is an opportunity for you to serve Uncle Sam—our dear Old Uncle Sam, who is father, mother, sister, brother, wife and friend to us all.

At least that is the way that I feel about it. If I had a young life to give Uncle Sam again, I would give it for the good that this enlistment in his service means.

"No one should live in these days by droning through the hours in dreary listlessness. You will get the pep in the army which will make a new man out of you."

David Wheeler, Y. M. C. A. worker, followed with one of his picture talks on what army training brings to the man.

CHILDREN IN DANCES.

From the School for State Children under the charge of Mrs. Maybelle Lyman came many beautiful little ones with their minuets and songs. They filled every one with delight as they went through their several acts. Frances Sullivan, four years old, in "Howdy Dance;" Gwendolyn Hamlin, in her dances; Marguerite and Verna Barr, in "Wedding Bells;" Doris Ferguson and Dolly Jollemore, in "Rip Var Winkle" eccentric dance; all these made a very attractive program.

On the job at all times, singing their popular songs, were Harry Harris, Johnnie Keefe, Ted Leary, Sam Walton, Francis Maguire, all of the Leo Feist company, made big hits with their songs, with Chic Story at the Steinert piano.

The aviation band played musical selections. Majors F. B. Shaw and George Elsey at the army recruiting station were on hand and reported a very successful drive for recruits today.

KELLERMANN PARADE IS BANNED IN OHIO

Dayton, Ohio, June 27.—Bathing suits are not for promenade, but for the water. With this statement the safety director has instructed police that women and men who disport themselves about the streets in the vicinity of Island Park shall be subject to arrest. The would-be Annette Kellermanns have been so bold that some of the residents have been really shocked.

WARNS HOTELS TO OBSERVE THE DRY LAW STRICTLY

on July 1 and fight in the courts if he is pinned up, but made the statement general enough to include any liquor dealers inclined to ignore the wartime prohibition law.

Mr. Monahan, after the talk with the superintendent of police, announced that his attitude had not changed, that he would open his bar in Marshall street at 6 o'clock, and would himself sell the first drink.

The occasion of the warning was the request of the liquor dealer for a police detail of ten men to keep order on Tuesday when he opens his Marshal street oasis in an otherwise arid Boston. He offered to pay the men.

He told Superintendent Crowley that he was satisfied he was within his legal rights. It had been rumored that other liquor dealers would follow Monahan's example and fight the execution of wartime prohibition, but this rumor weakened perceptibly today in face of the police warning.

WARNS HOTEL MEN.

Boston hotel men will make no effort to see how close to cheating the "dry" law they can go after July 1, if they follow the advice of President J. J. McCarthy of the Hotel Men's Association, who is recommending to his colleagues that they observe the law and do not try to force any decision as to what "intoxicating liquor" is.

So far as his own hotels go, he stated, the only refreshments after July 1 will be ice creams, sodas and lemonades. "We will not sell liquor of any kind unless the ban is lifted," he said, "and I will advise every member of the association to follow the same course."

Meanwhile preparations to sell 2.75 per cent beer as a non-intoxicant seem to be going ahead, for a very large per cent of the licenses of all classes in Boston have taken out two forms of licenses recently, nearly every class of license holder having taken a second class license, it being the plan of the liquor dealers to open for the sale of 2.75 per cent beer if nothing stronger is permitted.

STILL ISSUE LICENSES.

Although the news from Washington, that the United States Circuit Court of Appeals had held hat Judge Mayer had no jurisdiction to enjoin the enforcement of wartime prohibition so far as 2.75 per cent beer is concerned, caused some comment in liquor circles, the fact that the court had recommended as little interference with the business of brewers as possible until a final Supreme Court decision could be had, kept it from causing much consternation.

The Federal Internal Revenue Service has been receiving the $25 fees from liquor dealers that Federal law demands, although in return for the money it has been issuing receipts instead of licenses. These receipts bear a notation to the effect that they confer no immunity so far as the State or Federal laws are concerned.

There was considerable discussion among liquor dealers regarding their status with the Federal Government if they attempt to sell beverages containing any percentage of alcohol after July 1. Nobody could be found, however, who would venture to forecast what the Federal Government's attitude will be regarding the sale of near-beer until Congress or the Supreme Court has defined what is intoxicating.

That the immediate future of the liquor business is something besides an academic question is attested by the rapidity with which stocks of liquor are being sold to private buyers. There is a saloon in Canal street that has been in business for more than sixty years. April 1 its stock on hand of liquors was valued at $742,000. Yesterday it was reduced to approximately $300,000. The bottled goods have been going recently in lots worth thousands of dollars.

BUY HEAVILY TO STORE.

A Boston lawyer bought $7,200 worth a few days ago. A resident of New Hampshire—a dry State, at present fenced against liquor shipments by the provisions of the Webb law—purchased $5,200 worth recently. A Boston mrchant, having bought to the extent of $4,200, took his purchase away in a motor truck and stored the stock away in a safe deposit vault, which he locked with a key and a combination lock, declaring that the goods should not be disturbed for three years.

Auctions of liquor stocks are daily events, and judging by appearances there is still plenty to be had. Bargains are announced, but the sales are well attended and prices kept up pretty well. It is exceptional that a case of a standard brand of a hard liquor can be obtained for more than a few dollars below the controlling war-time prices.

Revised Prohibition Enforcement Bill Is Put on House Calendar

By International News Service.

Washington, June 27.—The revised prohibition enforcement bill was reported favorably by the House Judiciary Committee this afternoon and placed on the House calendar.

Plans are now being perfected for speeding its passage through the House.

The bill is in three parts. The first part deals with wartime prohibition enforcement and would be repealed automatically should the wartime prohibition law be annulled.

The second part deals with constitutional prohibition enforcement and becomes effect January 16 next.

The third part regulates the manufacture of alcohol for permitted purposes and uses, also effective January 16 next.

The "wets" in Congress have won what they consider a victory.

It was agreed by both sides that there is no chance of pushing the bill through both Houses before July 1. And after the bill becomes a law additional time, probably a month, will be required for the enactment of supplemental legislation making appropriations for the enlargement of the forces of the Department of Justice and the Bureau of Internal Revenue, to which is intrusted the enforcement of the dry law.

While professing confidence that wartime prohibition will continue in operation for only a short time, thirty or forty days, even if the President does not set it aside, the "wets" said consideration of the bill in the House is certain to precipitate a bitter fight. A minority report will be brought in and many amendments will be urged.

SUBJECT TO $1,000 FINE.

One of the first amendments to be offered will provide specific authority for the President to remove the war time restrictions against light wines and beer. A move also will be made to separate the measure into two bills, as attempted in committee.

As the bill now stands the principal provisions are:

Title 1—Intoxicating liquor defined as any beverage containing more than one-half of one percentum of alcohol by volume.

Revenue forces shall investigate and report violations and the Department of Justice shall prosecute.

Any place where intoxicating liquor is found in violation of the law is made a nuisance and the proprietor is subject to a maximum fine of $1,000 and imprisonment for as long as a year. Injunctions to abate the nuisance are provided for.

WHAT AN INTOXICANT IS.

Title 2.—Intoxicating liquor is defined so as to include alcohol, brandy, whiskey, rum, gin, beer, ale, porter and wine, and in addition any spirituous, malt or fermented liquor, liquids and compounds, whether medicated, proprietary, patented or not, and by whatever name called, containing one-half per centum or more of alcohol by volume, which are potable or capable of being used as a beverage.

The Internal Revenue Commissioner's forces are made responsible for investigating and reporting violations to the United States Attorney for the district in which the violations are committed. The attorney is charged with the duty of prosecuting, subject to the direction of the Attorney-General.

Liquors obtained before prohibition becomes effective, and stored in private dwellings for personal use are not affected. Liquors used for medicinal, scientific or sacramental purposes also are exempted. Physicians may prescribe liquor only in quantities up to a point, and such a prescription cannot be refilled. A second prescription may not be written within ten days. Pharmacists filling liquor prescriptions must be licensed and must keep a record of all prescriptions filled.

Manufacturers of proprietary medicines containing alcohol are required by the bill to establish to the satisfaction of the commissioner of internal revenue that their products cannot be used for beverage purposes.

NO "ADS" OF THE DEMON.

All liquor advertisements and the telling of where or how liquor may be obtained are banned.

Liquor formulas or preparations from which liquor can be made cannot be sold.

Drinking in trains and automobiles is forbidden. Vehicles, including airplanes, used in the illicit transportation of liquor may be confiscated.

Ten days are allowed after the law becomes operative to dispose of liquor illegally held.

Search warrants for liquor illegally held may be issued by any Federal Court, any court of record or any United States Commissioner.

Title 3—Alcohol is defined as "that substance known as ethyl alcohol, hydrated oxide of ethyl, or spirit of wine, from whatever source or whatever process produced."

Producers of industrial alcohol, within thirty days after passage of the act, must register, and the premises must be bonded and a permit issued for the operations of the plants.

Liquor fit for beverage purposes may be withdrawn from bonded warehouses and redistilled into industrial alcohol.

Denatured alcohol may be sold free of taxation.

Liquor Men's Protest May Be Put to the Test in Connecticut

By International News Service.

New Haven, Ct., June 27.—That the fight of the liquor men to keep their places of business open after July 1 may centre in this State was evident when it became known today through a letter written by United States District Attorney John F. Crosby of Hartford that he would enforce the law against the liquor men in this State on July 1 unless restrained in some way. It became known at the same time that several prominent liquor men, representing the entire business in the State, would, through their attorneys, bring an injunction against the Federal officials restraining them from enforcing the law.

It is understood here that similar injunctions are planned to be issued in all States where liquor is now sold, but that the test of the matter in the Federal courts will be made in Connecticut.

NEWPORT WANTS A "SPREE" ERE IT'S TOO LATE

Mayor Wires Secretary Daniels Demanding That Ban on Liquor Be Removed

Newport, R. I., June 27.—Fashionable Newport, Summer home of more millionaires than any place in the country, wants to get off the water-wagon before July 1 arrives. The war-time ban on intoxicating liquors placed by Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels is getting Newport's goat (figuratively speaking).

Mayor Mahoney has sent a telegram to Mr. Daniels demanding the removal of the ban which prohibits the sale and importation of liquor in the city. In his telegram he states that "Newporters consider the continued refusal to modify the ban an unjust and unreasonable interference with local rights."

The mayor declares the conditions that warranted the issuance of the ban no longer exist. He adds that Newport is as clean and patriotic as any city in the country and points to its war record as proof of his statement.

Mayor Mahoney's telegram to Secretary Daniels follows:

"Newport is entitled to modification of order. Government stations back to normal basis and local demobilization complete. Conditions that warranted issuance of your order no longer exist. Newport as clean as any city north or south due to the efficiency of the Newport police. Interests, business and economics, demand modification. Newporters consider continued refusal to modify unjust and unreasonable interference with local rights, a violation of sacred New England institution of home rule. War being over, Newport intends to be ruled in home affairs by Newporters and by no one else.

Newport yields to no part of this country in its patriotism and love of American principles, and points to its proud record in late war as unquestioned proof. Newporters are law abiding and stand ready to maintain law and order against un-American and radical doctrines. But Newporters insist on fair treatment, on the exercise of rights and privileges that they are entitled to, and as a matter of justice demand modification of this order and a termination of outside control and interference with the internal affairs of this city."

HUMID CITY AWAITS COOLING WINDS TONIGHT

Although showery conditions took the scorch out of the heat wave today, high humidity prevailed and the city continued mopping its brow. Cooling northwest winds tonight were predicted by Forecaster Smith, who also declared that tomorrow would be fair and cooler, or, rather, less hot. At noon the thremometer registered half a dozen degrees above freezing point—in White River, Ont.

VIOLINISTS TO ASSIST AT PIANO RECITAL

A musicale will be given by piano pupils of Mme. Maud Paradis-Lane in Steinert Hall tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. They will be assisted by Miss Marion Lowd, soprano, and by Raphael del Sordo and Attilio di Scipio, violinists.

"Non-Tox" Highball Makes Aviators of Tired Men

With a punch that will make a "tired business man feel like an aviator on a hot day," Colonel Roger F. Scannell, well-known Bostonian, has concocted the "non-tox" highball, carrying with it all the curative minerals of the Mallow Spa, Ireland.

The beauty of the new highball, according to "Roger," which is his favorite congnomen among friends, is that the concoction is a real ball. "It has several minerals in it," said Roger, "and just a bit of the best old whiskey."

"How big is the bit?" he was asked.

"Well," said Roger, with a twinkle in his gray eyes, "you can bet it will be as big as the law allows. To be exact would give the secret away."

The formula, he said, was handed down to him by old Dr. Samuel H. Woods, who kept an apothecary shop on Tremont street, opposite King's Chapel during the Civil War.

WOMAN WINS $9,500 VERDICT AGAINST "L"

Mrs. Minnie Parker was given a verdict of $9,500 against the Boston Elevated Railway Company today, by a jury in the Second Session of the Superior Court before Judge Quinn. Her suit was for $20,000.

Mrs. Parker charged that on the night of February 25, 1917, as she was alighting at Massachusetts avenue and Norway street, the car started suddenly, throwing her to the ground and fracturing her right hip. The company contended that the woman had attempted to get off before the car stopped.

Mrs. Parker is about forty-nine. She has been employed as a seamstress at Boston hotels, and testified that she was at one time assistant housekeeper at the Adams House.

"OLD IRONSIDES" GUARD KILLED BY FALL OFF TRAIN

Lorenzo D. Goodwin of No. 5 Stephen street, Lynn, died at the Beverly City Hospital from injuries sustained Wednesday night when he fell from a Boston & Maine train while on his way to his Summer home in Wenham.

He was for many years caretaker of the frigate "Old Ironsides" at the Boston Navy Yard. He was born in Lynn in 1845 and served throughout the Civil War. He is survived by a widow and a brother, Andrew Goodwin. Funeral services will be held at the Rhodes Memorial Chapel, Lynn, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in Pine Grove Cemetery, Lynn.

WARSHIPS TO BE LAUNCHED TOMORROW

The launching of three United States warships tomorrow in the Quincy shipbuilding plants will finish an unusually busy period in the Victory efforts of the employes of the shipyards. At the Victor plant, Squantum, the United States Destroyer Moody will be launched at noon and at 12.30 the torpedo boat Henshaw will enter the water. The submarine R-10 will be launched at the Fore River yards at 12.10 tomorrow.

DISBAND PROVOST GUARD IN BOSTON

The provost guard in Boston has been disbanded and the men enlisted or drafted for the period of the war in the local contingent discharged.

Colonel Thomas L. Brewer, commanding the 36th Infantry, who has been provost marshal for Boston, was assigned to duty on General Edwards' staff as inspector of small arms practice.

The remaining 125 members of the 36th Infantry on duty here, all regulars, will be sent to Camp Devens and Fort Ethan Allen, Vt.

SHIPPING BOARD TO RETURN DUTCH SHIPS

Washington, June 27.—Dutch vessels taken over by the United States during the war will soon be returned to their owners, Senator Fletcher of Florida, has been informed by officials of the Shipping Board, he told the Senate. Fletcher protested against the sale to foreign powers of ships built by the Shipping Board, and advised the continuation of the shipbuilding program in the United States for sale to private American owners. Cancellation of contracts by the Shipping Board will cost the government nearly $200,000,000, Senator Fletcher said.

350 HEROES IN 26TH CITED FOR DECORATIONS

A corps of workers was kept busy completing in headquarters offices of the Northeastern Department the list of 250 men in the 26th Division cited for decoration for deeds of heroism on the western front.

Many of these citations will be turned over to Captain Jean B. Le Meltour, former French Liaison office with the division, who is to return to France this week, and who will present them to the French government, recommending the award of the Croix de Guerre.

CAPE CANAL EMPLOYES TO GREET MAJOR VALUE

Onset, June 27.—The event of the opening period of the mid-Summer social season along upper Buzzards Bay will be on July 7 at Onset Temple, when the Cape Cod Canal employes will tender a reception and dance to their new superintendent from overseas, Major Birdsall H. Value. The affair will be more of a community welcome home from France of a war hero, together with a sincere testimonial of the canal folk to their superior officer.

There will be a reception from 8 to 9 o'clock and dancing will follow. There will be brief addresses of welcome and appreciation by prominent speakers and guests and [illegible] in the way of responses [illegible] along with an orchestral concert. Captain George G. Rochester, chief pilot and master of tow boats of the canal, has the detail of arrangements well in hand. LIFT CORNS OFF

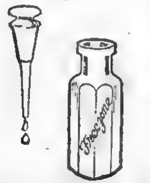
Doesn't hurt a bit to lift that sore, touchy corn off with fingers



Drops of magic! Apply a little Freezone on that bothersome corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it off with the fingers. No pain at all! Try it!

Why wait? Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of Freezone for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without soreness at all.

"DOMINION?"—Too Late!

Before, during and after the American Revolution there were Tories here who claimed to be in the majority and who repudiated the Declaration of Independence.

They were anxious to remain under the rule of George III., and were opposed to any demand by the Colonies for self-government.

Washington and the Fathers of the Republic said "No!"

They were willing to go on the scaffold to establish and maintain a government based on the consent of the governed.

Shall we repudiate Washington by acknowledging that an enforced "dominion" for any country is better than freedom?

Forced to consider the inherent and pressing justice of Ireland's claim for nationhood, England now offers "dominion" as a palliative.

After President Wilson's declaration why this Nation went to war, it is too late for "concessions" or "grants."

In accordance with the purposes for which America entered the war, Ireland demands its sovereign independence, clear of all liens and tributes.

The Irish question can only be settled definitely when it is settled right—and not by any consideration of England's interests, but wholly of Ireland's rights.

The unescapable effect of centuries of experience vitiates any compromise now made in England, or, for that matter, in Anglo Ireland.

Ireland has stopped asking favors, grants or concessions.

"Our place is on the side of free institutions everywhere."—Daniel Webster.

Nation Faces Critical Coal Shortage

Says the U. S. Government

Buy Your Coal NOW

COAL production has fallen off to an alarming extent. This is due to a combination of causes. No increase in output is possible without quick action by coal consumers.

Coal cannot be produced and held in huge quantities at the mines awaiting the convenience of buyers. It must be moved as fast as produced and kept moving until it finally reaches the consumer.

During the past two years we have been confronted with a coal shortage.

In 1917 it embarrassed our conduct of the war, shut down factories, left cities in darkness, shortened the working hours of public utilities and caused great suffering in many homes.

In 1918, in response to government appeal, consumers bought their coal during the summer months, and as a result of their action and the patriotic and superhuman effort on the part of operators and miners, the greatest production in the history of the country was achieved—namely, 585,000,000 tons. Thus a shortage was averted.

In 1919—the present year—we face this situation:

Requirements for the year (Govt. estimate) (55 million tons less than 1918)	530,000,000	tons
Stocks on hand January 1	30,000,000	"
Coal production required for 1919	500,000,000	"
Coal produced Jan. 1 to June 14, 1919	195,000,000	"
Quantity to be produced during remaining 28 weeks	305,000,000	"
Average weekly production first 24 weeks	8,125,000	"
Average tonnage which must be produced weekly during coming 28 weeks	10,900,000	"

To meet the requirements of the country, production of the mines must be increased 2,775,000 tons each week!

How can this be done?

By buying your coal now. This is the only way to increase production.

If production is not stimulated now, somebody will have no coal this winter.

Will it be you?

Do not think we are alarmists. The figures quoted above are accurate. They are the OFFICIAL figures of the Geological Survey of the United States Government.

Your Government Warns You

Dr. H. A. Garfield, United States Fuel Administrator, has issued a statement to the public as follows:

> "Buy now—in August or the Autumn will be too late. A big coal shortage is coming. Thousands of miners are going back to Europe. Coal production has fallen off considerably and a shortage of many million tons looks probable. My advice to consumers is to buy now while they can get a selection and delivery. I feel bound to say that, as I see the situation, we are likely to experience a coal famine in the Fall."

These are all facts. Consider them.

Quick action being so apparent, we cannot urge too strongly that you buy your coal NOW so as to be sure of having it next winter.

TRAINS TIED UP IN CAMBRIDGE TUNNEL

Service in the Cambridge tunnel was tied up from 8 10 until 8 37 today and thousands of Bostonians made late for work or business when a train bound for Andrew square "stalled" at Washington station because of defective wheels on one of the cars

The passengers had to get out while crude repairs were made and the car was run back to Harvard square. Extra surface cars were started from Andrew square for Dorchester and South Boston people on their way to town but thousands caught in the underground stations were late to business as a result of the tieup.

The Boston Elevated Company's explanation of the tieup follows: "An unfortunate delay was occasioned today by the stalling of a Cambridge-bound tunnel train at Washington station from 8 10 to 8 37 a. m. One of the cars in the train was flashing badly due probably to a grounded train shoe. The train was stopped at Washington station and temporary repairs made. This tied up traffic inbound from Andrews square. Extra surface cars were put on to accommodate the people. There was great inconvenience because of the fact that the tieup occurred during the rush hour."

WORCESTER TEACHER FOR 25 YEARS RESIGNS

Worcester, June 27 —Miss Anna P. Smith of No. 562 Pleasant street has resigned from the faculty of Worcester State Normal School after serving twenty-five years as a teacher of mathematics. She was one of the founders and an ex-president of the Worcester Levana Club. Miss Helen M. Clark of the art department has also handed in her resignation to Principal Aspinwall.

COUNTERFEIT $10 BILLS FOUND IN WORCESTER

Worcester, June 27 — Counterfeit $10 bills are being circulated in Worcester. The police have obtained one bill raised from a one to a ten by cutting a corner from each of four $10 bills and pasting them on the corners of a $1 bill. It was a clever job, but not difficult of detection.

HINES SAYS FREIGHT INCREASES MAY COME

Washington, June 27.—Sharp increases in freight rates before the termination of government railroad control may be necessary to make up huge operating deficits. Director General Hines indicated to the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. He said, however, that such increases have been determined upon as yet by the Railroad Administration, although the question is [illegible] given serious consideration. [illegible] objected to any legislation [illegible] bind the hands of the President in ordering rate increases should [illegible] be found necessary.

MASON ACCUSES RUSSIAN BOND HOLDERS

Washington, June 27.—That he believes American troops are being held in Murmansk, Russia, through the influence of American holders of Russian bonds on which interest has been defaulted in the hope that some way may be found to guarantee payment of these bonds and interest, was indicated by Representative Mason of Illinois before the House Committee on Expenditures in the State Department.

[illegible] was made that Act[illegible] Secretary of State Polk would [illegible] before the committee and ex[illegible] all matters in connection with all government loans to Russia and government interest in the payment and guarantee of Russian bonds held by [illegible]

Mason advocated a thorough investigation [illegible] of all moneys advanced [illegible] the different Russian governments and private sales of Russian bonds in the United States.

He said that reports were to the effect that official representatives of the former Kerensky government [illegible] in this country on moneys advanced to the Russian government at different times, and that interest on $50,000,000 Russian bonds sold privately in this country through the banking house of Morgan & Co. had been paid prior to June 15 when there was a default, out of funds advanced by this government.

There had been authorized in Federal advances to the Russian government, Mason said, $325,000,000, of which $127,270,250 had not been actually advanced and should be in the treasury. He did not think it was there he added and "wanted to know what had become of it."

CANADA INCREASING CULTIVATION OF FLAX

Flax cultivation will be big source of revenue to Canada in the future. The war forced it to produce fiber. Russia formerly produced 80 per cent of the world's supply and Belgium a considerable part of the remainder. In 1915 1,400 acres were planted for fiber flax in Ontario and this area had increased to 18,000 last year, the harvest amounting to 30,000 tons. This year Canada will plant 25,000 acres of fiber flax and a million acres probably of seed flax.

Canadian flax has proven superior to Russian and is a basis suitable for high grade linen.

COPPER METAL STEADY; PRICE TREND UPWARD

There is no change in the copper metal situation. The market is steady and the price trend upward. Quotations are 18¼ cents a pound for spot and July and 18½ cents for August. There is no definite information as to the amount of sales.

The labor situation is the most engrossing matter at present. A July 4 demonstration at Butte is feared. Mine employes expect a wage increase. Mining operators are said to be firm against it. One official thinks a shutdown of mines would be brief. Another thinks it would last six months.

N. Y. Stock Exchange Closing

The New York Stock Exchange will be closed July 5 as well as July 4, making with Sunday a three day holiday.

The Best Investment of Savings

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

The best place for the savings of a wage-earner or anybody on a small salary is in a savings bank or the savings department of a trust company. Money is not only safe while there, but at work for its owner. Be he an earner as well as a buyer, a dollar can function both ways.

Money increases fast when at work in a bank, if kept on the job. Interest draws interest, and together with principal toils for the depositor every day in the year, including Sundays and holidays, no matter where he goes or what he does. It never gets sick or out of repair; is free from taxation and cannot stray or get lost. It is the best of all insurance because it is a protection in life as well as in death, and can be cashed out before the undertaker is called in. As a spiritual consoler it is next to religious conviction. It makes the mind easy, which is as important to happiness almost as keeping the conscience clear. It is impossible to offer an objection to having a bank account.

Misinformed folks conceive wealth as an increment of speculation, and think the stock market is a farm where money is harvested. But getting rich quickly is intensive cultivation that few achieve. Most fortunes, whether big or little, had the smallest of beginnings, and are the result of such prosaic habits as frugality and industry practiced through years of self denial. Wealth is as much the product of keeping as of getting; and perseverance and perspiration are a pair of standard producers.

Stocks are good possessions if they pay dividends. Dividends come from past earnings and not from prospects. A stock that can be relied upon to pay as much year in and year out as would its market value if deposited in a bank is usually too sober and plodding a security to be noticed by a tout, and is managed as modestly as an old-fashioned household. It cannot be bought for less than it is worth, and it will never suddenly enrich stockholders. Any stock that is promoted by promises to do that is the kind that makes mourners for lost money.

Let the first words be the last words. The best place for the savings of a wage-earner or anybody on a small salary is in a savings bank or the savings department of a trust company.

Poor Weather Conditions Prevent Opening Clash With the Giants

By NICK FLATLEY.

The season [illegible] speeding

[illegible] get any faster.
[illegible] Songs of the Bleachers.

Those Braves, after bobbing up and down in the cellar like one of those glass balls in a shooting gallery, returned home today. There wasn't much prospect of any purple or fine linen being hurled at the prodigals, and even killing the fatted calf loomed up like the hardest part of a tough job.

Said calf appeared in the shape of the New York Giants, who are leading the parade, and have found the Braves more or less soft all season, mostly more so.

The weather man handed the Braves and Giants a kayo today. Occasional showers and overcast skies caused the Braves management to call off the opening pastime.

The Giants are only some two and a half games better off than the Reds and a matter of five pastimes beyond the Cubs, which [illegible] dangerous [illegible] all the way. Experts and [illegible] have been looking [illegible] considerable [illegible] defenses, but it hasn't [illegible] the McGraws [illegible] will.

[illegible] of which [illegible] the future. The present story is that the Giants are [illegible] today [illegible] tomorrow for a [illegible] and are [illegible] Monday for another one. The Phillies rode in on the crest of a [illegible] wave for a three [illegible] stopover. It has been a very dry season for them anyhow.

Even talk of trading has died down regarding the team, but it's a [illegible] that the new owner is looking around for somebody new. He [illegible] his investment eaten up and he isn't the sort of a person to sit and twiddle his thumbs and wish for better luck.

Those Braves, as we have said many a time and oft, have possibilities, but they need a little more real class tacked onto the prospects. Perhaps a home stand will help because they started [illegible] they trekked out into the West.

FUTURE BABE RUTHS, HERE'S CHANCE TO GET HOMER

The amateur nines are now coming in for their [illegible] with the college and school baseball seasons ended. The American, as usual, is the headquarters of the sand lot stars.

Special attention is to be given to the youngsters who are not more than fifteen years of age. Managers of captains of outfits ranging in age from nine to fifteen are asked to send in their individual pictures, names and stories about their teams to the Sporting Editor, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street.

Future Babe Ruths, get busy!

BARRY, STRUNK, LET OUT IN SOX TRADE

Roth and Shannon Come to Champions From Macks in Exchange

That long awaited blowup on the Red Sox is now a matter of history. Over in New York today, where the champions of last year are playing, Bobby [illegible] late Athletics, are [illegible] in [illegible] forms.

[illegible] Amos Strunk and Jack Barry [illegible] regalia [illegible] over the heart. The Boston [illegible] the team [illegible]. They had plenty of trouble [illegible] finally accomplished something.

Everybody in the world wanted Harry Hooper [illegible] but the [illegible] still retains [illegible]. He [illegible]. The [illegible] will [illegible] doesn't make every [illegible] drizzle and lazy eyes wreck batting averages.

CANNOT HURT RED SOX.

One thing is sure [illegible] cannot hurt the Red Sox. The team in the past week showed [illegible] as possible [illegible]. New players mean new [illegible] the champions [illegible] interesting [illegible].

Roth has developed [illegible] of the real stars of the [illegible] as a great hitter last season with Cleveland. He was traded by the Indians because that [illegible] outfit just simply had to get a good third baseman. Bobby was swapped for Larry Gardner, as dependable a fielder at the difficult [illegible] is there, and a dangerous hitter.

And now Roth has come to Boston and so satisfied [illegible] that has been his for several seasons. Could he have been [illegible] without the loss of Strunk, the Red Sox would have had an [illegible] but nobody else is just now. But that proved to be impossible, and the next best method substituted. With a friendly Boston [illegible] him on, Roth should rapidly step out as one of the game's [illegible].

MEANS HARMONY.

The departure of Jack Barry will cause plenty of sorrow in this part [illegible]

"Why Don't You Get a Kirschbaum Palm Beach Suit for Business Wear?"

The Way
KIRSCHBAUM
Makes Palm Beach Suits

Makes all the difference in the world.

This featherweight material—so popular for summer—requires a high degree of skill in the making if it is to fit well and look well.

When it does look well it's a joy to see and a joy to wear.

If you saw the way Kirschbaum subjects the materials to the most perfect shrinking process yet devised for clothing fabrics—if you saw designers who command higher salaries than the custom tailors can afford to pay fashioning the garments—the tailors as careful of every detail as they are of the Kirschbaum woolen suits—you would have a high estimate of Kirschbaum Summer Clothes.

BIG BATTLE MAY NOT GO LIMIT

Knockout Within a Few Rounds Consensus of Fraternity's Opinion

By DAMON RUNYON.

Toledo, O., June 27.—It's rather an odd circumstance but nobody in these parts seems to give the possibility of the Willard-Dempsey matter going the full twelve rounds the slightest "tumble," as they say in the classical language of the fighting fraternity.

A [illegible] takes it for granted that [illegible] inside the [illegible] otherwise. At least there is never the faintest suggestion [illegible] the [illegible] of gossip that both men may be on their feet at the finish.

WILL DEMPSEY SHIFT.

And yet the [illegible] assuredly exists. It exists just as strongly in this bout as in any [illegible] ever staged. Like everyone else I am looking for a short fight and a merry one, but like everyone else I am basing that idea on the expectation that Dempsey will [illegible] the battle to Willard right from the kick off.

Suppose Dempsey fails to do that? What [illegible]? It seems improbable that Dempsey can change his style, but supposing he discovers in the first few rushes that he cannot get past that long left of Willard's without having his nose plastered all over his map?

Would it be reasonable to expect Jack to keep up rushing? Would it be good sense for him to keep plunging against that sort of barrier?

I think not. I don't think Dempsey wants to get messed up [illegible] and perhaps knocked cold any more than any other fighter.

WILLARD MAY RUSH.

If the Colorado man meets early rebuffs he may try waiting around and as Willard is a waiter to the manner born—a sort of head waiter so to speak—we may see an afternoon of waiting and I can think of no worse way of putting in our national birthday.

Dempsey has knocked out a lot of queer looking parties in ragtime but he has also engaged in a number of squabbles which went the limit.

Willard has said that he intends carrying some of the battle at least to Dempsey. It seems inconceivable that Jess can bring himself to forcing a fight, yet it was equally inconceivable that Jack Johnson could do [illegible]. Jack was strictly a [illegible] yet at Havana he went stuffing after Jess in a manner which astonished the beholders.

With a decision depending on the result, however, whether there is a knockout or not, it is pretty certain that one or the other will manifest some aggressiveness.

It May Go This Way.

JACK dusted Willard off with a left to the horn followed by a bouquet of knuckles to the lapels. Then he scattered eight right swings to Jess' fireplace and threw six left hooks among him. Each wallop went over so fast that it sounded like the dishwashing machine in a restaurant. Jess was crawling around like a wet roach with Jack pecking at him like a [illegible] with [illegible]. The champion's knees folded up like a [illegible]. His head was wobbling from side to side like a giraffe with a [illegible] neck. As his chin came down, Dempsey flattened [illegible] with a right that stretched out the champ like a whale trying to swim [illegible] boardwalk. DAMON RUNYON

NO LET UP AS YET FOR DEMPSEY

Challenger Declares He Will Keep in Strict Training Until July 2

By JACK DEMPSEY.

Toledo, O., June 27.—Training has now reached the point in my camp where the action is going to be fast and furious up to within a couple of days before I go into the battle of big gun batteries with Jess Willard. There will be no doll house work and there will be no layoffs. From now on my sparring partners and myself are going to step pretty lively.

I reached fine condition a couple of weeks ago. I am after more speed and more endurance now. The only way I can get them is to go into action with my sparring partners with all my heart.

I expect to cease work on July 2, under present plans. On the two days intervening from then until time for the fight I will rest and eat foods that are strengthening. No one need have a shadow of doubt that I will be ready for the fight of my life.

There was an enormous crowd out to see me Sunday afternoon. I was told that more than 4,500 persons paid their way into the arena that has been built at my training quarters.

WANTS TO WORK MORE.

I didn't get as far as I would have liked in my workout, for Jimmy Deforest and Jack Kearns called a halt after I had gone two rounds with Bill Tate and two with Jamaica Kid.

I would have liked to have done a round or so more of boxing and I also wanted to do some shadow boxing, but they said no and that closed the argument.

The large crowd that came out to see me work probably was satisfied that I can take a punch, and that I also can deliver one on a man of Willard's size.

Bill Tate is almost as large as Willard, and he can box with more speed that the big white man, if reports reaching me are correct. He hits faster they tell me and he succeeded in planting two long right-hand uppercuts right on the spot for which they had been started.

I had no trouble at all in reaching Tate with solid punches. I planted rights and lefts on his head and abdomen constantly through the workout, and they were punches with steam behind them.

GATE MONEY TO CHARITY.

Jamaica Kid is smaller but he is very fast and hits a terrific punch. I honestly believe there are no better men in the game for sparring partners such as I need than these two fellows.

Tate gives me the workouts against a large, heavy, fast-punching man. Jamaica Kid gives me an argument over the fast route and slugs with me at his best. I will have others in the camp, but these two faithful fellows give me what I want right now.

Most of the money that comes through the gate at my camp is going to charity. Jack Kearns has passed out many a hundred dollars to various charities about Toledo, and has sent checks to churches here.

He paid the expenses for building a stand at the gate of the Arena where I train, and has given away some of the concessions. No one is permitted to charge a cent for parking automobiles at the grounds.

Anyone is at liberty to drive up his car and leave it, without being held up. I understand that a lot of fellows are stationing themselves along the State highway at the gate to the camp, and are charging 25 cents to park a car along the road. That's all wrong, and I disapprove of it.

ROAN HAL WINNER IN FREE-FOR-ALL PACE

Hillsgrove, R. I., June 27.—Roan Hal won the free-for-all pace in straight heats before a large crowd. Oro Fino was second. The best mile was made in 2:08¼. Lester Dore broke the ice for the first time this season, with Bill Gentry, in the 2:17 pace, in easy fashion; while Chester, another Hub entry, grabbed the 2:19 trot from Parion after a hard battle of five heats.

The racers go from here to Windsor, Ct., where a four-day "meet" will be staged, July 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Toledo, O., June 27.—Is Jess Willard [illegible] fidence of the champion oozed away? Does he [illegible] on the wall that places an "ex" before his name?

This recital may interest. It was passed along from [illegible] Heinen, the 230-pounder who was a sparring partner for the [illegible] Kansan.

"About 3 o'clock one morning last week," related Heinen, "I heard some peculiar noises, a sort of quick, careless shuffling in the house where Jess and the rest of us occupied. I opened my door and the sound became louder. Tiptoeing around I finally found the cause. It was none other than Jess Willard shadow boxing before a mirror in the bathroom.

"What's the idea, Jess, are you worried?" I asked.

"'O, say, tell me about that left of Dempsey's,' exclaimed the champion. 'Now show me how he starts it.'

"For half an hour or more," said Heinen, "I boxed with Willard after 3 in the morning showing him what I knew about the methods Dempsey uses in clubbing his opponents."

WILLARD CHANGED.

Those who have watched Willard closely since his arrival here for training purposes have noticed a marked change in him during the last week. Earlier he was jovial, even-tempered and boastfully confident of whipping Dempsey, but now it is a different Jess Willard who drops occasionally into the Secor lobby, a quieter Willard, one who no longer talks as though he figured that July 4 affair means just a workout, and there is a pronounced irritability in his manner compared with that of ten days ago.

Willard has been his own trainer for this fight and therein he has committed a grave folly in the opinion of the [illegible] days [illegible] heater [illegible] June 12.

STIRRING TALE OF HUNT FOR PIRATES' GOLD

Young New York Millionaire, Lured by Tales of a Central American Adventurer, Sets Sail on a Most Thrilling Cruise

The theme of this story was suggested to the author by Charles W. Goddard

SHE threw the banana peel into the water and [illegible]ally watched the point where it had struck.

"If anything comes up I hope it will be big," Concordia murmured with equal laziness.

And upon their astonished gaze, even as they looked, arose up out of the brown depths a great white hound. They jerked their poles up and behind them [illegible] the bank threw their arms about [illegible] and watched the [illegible] shore at the [illegible] climb the [illegible] shake himself [illegible] disappear among the trees.

Nicoya and Concordia laughed.

"Try it again," [illegible] urged.

"No, you this time. And see what you can bring up."

Quite [illegible] Concordia tossed [illegible] of earth. And almost immediately a helmeted head arose on the [illegible] clutching each other very tightly they watched the man under the helmet gain the shore where the hound had landed and disappeared into the forest.

Again the two Indian girls giggled; but this time [illegible] as they would, neither [illegible] courage to throw anything into the water.

Some time later, still giggling over the strange occurrences, they were espied by two young Indian men who were hugging the bank as they paddled their canoe up against the stream.

"What makes you laugh?" one of them greeted.

"We have been seeing things," Nicoya gurgled down to them.

"Then you have been drinking pulque," the young man charged.

Both girls shook their heads and Concordia said:

"We don't have to drink to see things. First when Nicoya threw in a banana skin we saw a dog come up out of the water, a white dog that was as big as a tiger of the mountains."

A Day of Miracles

"And when Concordia threw in a clod," the other girl took up the tale, "up came a man with a head of iron. It is [illegible] Concordia and I can work magic."

And each in turn, while the other with his paddle held the canoe in place, took a swig from a square-face Holland gin bottle part full of pulque.

"No," said Jose, when the girls had begged them for a drink. "One drink of pulque and you might see more white dogs as big as tigers or more iron-headed men."

"All right," Nicoya accepted the rebuff. "Then do you throw in your pulque bottle and see what you will see. [illegible] a dog and a man. Your prize may be the devil."

"I should like to see the devil," said Jose, taking another drain at the bottle. "The pulque is a true fire of bravery. I should very much like to see the devil."

He passed the bottle to his companion with a gesture to finish it.

"Now throw it into the water," Jose commanded.

The empty bottle [illegible] forceful splash [illegible] was realized with [illegible] face, for up [illegible] the monstrous [illegible] slain spider [illegible] was [illegible] for ordinary [illegible] flesh and [illegible]

So suddenly did both young men [illegible] that they capsized [illegible] when their heads emerged from the water they struck out for the swift current and were swiftly borne away down [illegible]

[illegible] had been [illegible] and waited [illegible] water and out of the tail of their eyes observing [illegible] young men capture [illegible] and run out and [illegible] bank.

The afternoon sun was getting [illegible] ere the girls summoned [illegible] the [illegible] water [illegible] much [illegible] did they agree both to fling [illegible] at the same time. And up arose a man and a woman—Francis and the Queen. [illegible] fell over backward to [illegible] and were themselves [illegible] watched Francis [illegible] with the Queen to the shore.

"It may just have happened all these things may just have happened in the very times we threw [illegible] water," Nicoya whispered [illegible] five minutes [illegible]

"[illegible] when we threw one thing, only one came up," Concordia argued. "And when we threw two, [illegible]"

"Very well," said Nicoya, "let us [illegible] prove it. Let us try again [illegible] we have [illegible]"

[illegible] threw in clods, and up rose another man and woman. But this pair, Henry and Leoncia [illegible] and they [illegible] place and [illegible] passed on out of sight among the trees.

[illegible] the two Indian girls lingered [illegible] they had agreed to throw [illegible] something arose [illegible] proved [illegible] nothing further was [illegible] evoked [illegible] that the magic was [illegible]

They lay hidden and watched the water until darkness hid it from their eyes, and, slowly and soberly, they took the trail back to their village, ever [illegible] an awareness of having been blessed by the gods.

CHAPTER XXII.

NOT until the day following his escape from the subterranean river did Torres reach San Antonio. He arrived on foot, jaded and dirty, a small Indian boy at his heels carrying the helmet of Da Vasco. For Torres wanted to show the helmet to the Jefe and the Judge [illegible] of the narrative of [illegible] adventure he chuckled to [illegible]

First on the main street he encountered the Jefe, who cried out loudly at his appearance.

"Is it truly you, Senor Torres?" The Jefe crossed himself solemnly ere he shook hands.

[illegible] flesh and even more so, [illegible] of the other's hand, [illegible] Jefe of reality and [illegible] Whereupon the Jefe [illegible] wrathful.

"And here I've been looking upon [illegible] as dead," he exclaimed. "That [illegible] of a [illegible] Man [illegible] He [illegible] and [illegible] of the Maya [illegible]"

[illegible] and [illegible] Panama [illegible] Torres replied grandiosely. "At least, like the ancient and heroic conquistadores, I have braved all dangers and penetrated to the treasure. I have seen it. Nay——"

Torres' hand had been sunk into his trousers pocket to bring forth the filched gems of the Lady Who Dreams, but he withdrew the hand empty. Too many curious eyes of the street were already centred upon him and the dragged figure he cut.

Much to Relate

"I have much to say to you," he told the Jefe, "that cannot well be said now. I have knocked on the doors of the dead and worn the shrouds of corpses. And I have consorted with men four centuries dead but who were not dust. And I have beheld them drown in the second death. I have gone through mountains as well as over them and broken bread with lost souls and gazed into the Mirror of the World. All of which I shall tell to you, my best friend, and the honorable Judge in due time, for I shall make you rich along with me."

"Have you looked upon the pulque when it was sour?" the Jefe quizzed [illegible]

"I have not had a drink stronger than water since I last departed from San Antonio," was the reply. "And I shall go now to my house and drink a long, long drink, and after that I shall bathe the filth from me and put on garments whole and decent."

Not immediately, as he proceeded, did Torres gain his house. A ragged urchin exclaimed out at sight of him, ran up to him and handed him an envelope that he knew full well to be from the local government wireless, and that he was certain had been sent him by Regan.

"You are doing well. Imperative you keep party away from New York for three weeks more. Fifty thousand if you succeed."

Borrowing a pencil from the boy Torres wrote a reply on the back of the envelope.

"Send the money. Party will never come back."

Two other occurrences delayed Torres' long drink and bath. Just as he was entering the jewelry store of old Rodriguez Fernandez he was intercepted by the old Maya priest with whom he last parted in the Maya mountains. He recoiled as from an apparition, for sure he was that the old man was drowned in the Room of the Gods. Like the Jefe at sight of Torres, so Torres at sight of the priest drew back in startled surprise.

"Go away," he said. "Depart, restless old man. You are a spirit. Thy body lies drowned and horrible in the heart of the mountains. You are an appearance, a ghost, a ghost. Go away, nothing corporal resides in this illusion of you, else I would strike you. You are a ghost. Depart at once. I should not like to strike a ghost."

But the ghost seized his hands and clung to them with such beseeching corporality as to unconvince him.

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

What It Is and How It Increases Weight, Strength and Nerve Force in Many Instances

SHOULD BE PRESCRIBED BY EVERY DOCTOR AND USED IN EVERY HOSPITAL

Says Editor of "Physicians' Who's Who."

Take plain bitro-phosphate is the advice of these physicians to thin, delicate nervous people who lack vim, energy and nerve force, and there seems to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation to warrant the recommendation. Moreover, if we judge from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft, curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are often due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate should [illegible] a welcome transformation in the appearance, the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

[illegible] tests made in [illegible] Catherine's Hospital, N. Y. C., showed that two patients gained in weight 23 and 27 pounds, respectively, [illegible] the administration of organic phosphate; both patients [illegible] they had not felt as strong and well for the past twelve years.

Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should soon disappear, dull eyes ought to brighten and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

Physicians and hospitals everywhere are now recognizing its merits by its use in ever increasing quantities. Frederick Kolle, M. D., editor of New York Physicians' "Who's Who," says "Bitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital to increase strength and nerve force and to enrich the blood."

Joseph D. Harrigan, Former Visiting Specialist to North Eastern Dispensary, says: "Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, anaemic or run-down take a natural, unadulterated substance such as bitro-phosphate and you will soon see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy, strength of body and mind and power of endurance."

Bitro-Phosphate is made entirely of the organic phosphate compound referred to in the National Standard Dispensatory as being an excellent tonic and nervine and a preparation which has recently acquired considerable reputation in the treatment of neurasthenia. The standard of excellence, strength and purity of its substance is beyond question, for every Bitro-Phosphate tablet is manufactured in strict accordance with the U. S. Pharmacopoeia test requirements. Bitro-Phosphate is therefore not a patent medicine and should not be confused with any of the secret nostrums, so-called tonics or widely advertised "cure alls."

CAUTION—Although Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its tendency to increase weight it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.—Advertisement.

'The American Girl!'

AND now for the patriotic husband! He answers the question, "What is the ideal modern wife?" in the American's prize contest by saying:

"The American girl!"

Some of these answers, along with others, are given below. They belong to the honorable mention class, out of which the prize winners will be chosen and announced on this page tomorrow. As there is not space to print all the letters, extracts from some are given.

American Girls First!

"Here's to the All-American girl!"

"As the American warriors come home their sentiment regarding the ideal kind of a wife is just that. 'These very fray, the French demoiselles may be all to the good on looks, sprightliness and that 'chic' stuff, but, as for me, nothing but a girl of the All-American brand.'

"Thus might run one doughboy's opinion. A girl of this brand is a good homemaker. After all this wandering over the globe, with [illegible] 'beans' life, etc., [illegible] Uncle Sam's [illegible] the cosy [illegible] where they can [illegible] under a table [illegible] and look across at their life mate with [illegible] a dish of [illegible], or a [illegible] beans between them.

"And then they want to raise a lot of cows and chickens and everything. A maximum of charm, [illegible] and powder doesn't go far here.

"Good looks count. Neatness and tidiness count more. While a girl with real American blood and staunch American spirit counts most.

"Here's to the All-American girl. God bless her!"

LIEUTENANT E. O. C., U. S. N.

From a Soldier's Poem.

"Now, army lassies, you'll agree,
This tale I will unfold
Parisian girls had hooks and lines
To catch our warriors bold
But 'over here' or 'over there,'
Wherever Yanks may roam,
The modern wife we will select From dear old 'Home, Sweet Home.'"

W. E. R. Wellesley.

Short and Snappy

"You will find that the boys who went across did so to protect the American girl, and are for our girls, first, last and all the time. A [illegible]ck."

"The ideal modern wife is that one who is possessed of such a fortunate temper, such a wealth of feminine virtues, such an abundance of self-control, that she can undertake the training of the most obstinate brute of a man and succeed in converting him into a human being. B. W. J., Lewiston, Me."

"Unconsciously wielding a dulcifying influence over a husband even of forty lemon power.

A. G., East Greenwich, R. I."

How Shall I Select My Wife?

ALL men are attracted by beauty. But all men know that beauty alone is not a safe guide, in choosing a wife. What, then, is a safe guide?

The Boston American invites its masculine readers to send in their ideas on this question.

A prize of $25 will be awarded for the letter which, in the opinion of the judge, embodies the clearest and most unbiased answer. For the letter adjudged second best $10 will be awarded, and for the letter adjudged third best $5.

The decisions will be made by Beatrice Fairfax.

Confine your letter to 200 words. Write on one side of the paper only and give your name and address.

The contest closes Saturday noon, June 28. Winners will be announced during the week of July 7.

Address letters to Boston American Magazine Page, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

Makes Wrinkles Go "As If by Magic"

Want to banish every wrinkle—from face, neck, hands—easily, quickly, completely? Try the famous saxolite formula. Nothing else so nearly meets every requirement. Why? Because it is correct in principle and really truly assists Nature. Possessing remarkable astringent and tonic properties, it both tightens the skin, thus naturally smoothing out the lines—and improves capillary circulation and nerve tone—tending to strengthen loose tissue and bring about a healthy condition. Yet powerful as the saxolite lotion is, it won't harm your skin in the least. And it's so easy to get the inexpensive ingredients at your druggist's, and so easy to mix them.

Just dissolve one ounce powdered saxolite in one-half pint witch hazel—that's all. Bathe your face in this—immediately every wrinkle and crease are affected, even the deepest. You are perfectly astonished and delighted with the result. You look like you've lost years from your age!—Advertisement.

The Love Gambler

A NEW SERIAL BY A FAMOUS WRITER

David DeLaine, War Hero, Is Left Fortune Provided He Marries a Certain Girl

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XXI.

Copyright, 1919, Star Company

AT the entrance of the apartment house in which Mrs. Duffield lived were two large clusters of electric lights that made the night as bright as day. Had the chauffeur dismounted from his seat, his face would have been plainly visible to the trio in the limousine. So he sat still.

For a moment Samuel Leighton waited. Then with an impatient movement he opened the door, helped his sister from the car and conducted her up the steps. Returning he spoke brusquely.

"The Astor now, Smith!"

At the Hotel Astor the conditions were as bad, even worse, than at the apartment house from which the car had just come. To conceal one's face in this glare of light was impossible. So once more David remained seated.

Matters were simplified for him here by the fact that the doorman was all attention, and the chauffeur's services were not required. When Mr. Leighton had accompanied his guest into the hotel, he came back to the car. He paused as if about to speak, then with a brief, "Home now," took his seat.

That a time for explanations was coming, David was sure. Just what was suspected about him he did not know. Norah's information had been most unsatisfactory. He feared to learn the truth, yet could not stand the suspense of uncertainty. And if the truth was not guessed by Mr. Leighton, how much was the employer displeased by his employe's lack of proper courtesy this evening?

Soon to Be Enlightened

David was soon to be enlightened. As he stopped the car in front of the Leighton home, he sprang down and opened the door for its owner.

Mr. Leighton got out slowly, then turned and faced his chauffeur.

"Smith," he said gravely, "you are not a drinking man, are you?"

"Why, no, sir. Of course I am not!" was the prompt answer.

"I am glad; for if you were a drinking man I would think that a glass too much might account for your behavior tonight."

"My behavior tonight, sir?"

To repeat these words seemed the safest speech to make just now.

"Yes, I have never seen you so lacking in good manners."

"Lacking in good manners, sir?"

Mr. Leighton frowned. "Do not stand there repeating my words after me like that!" he commanded, indignantly. "What excuse have you to make to me?"

"Pardon me, sir, if I seem very stupid. But you have not told me what I have done to displease you."

"I took it for granted that you would know," the older man retorted. "Since you evidently do not, I will tell you. In the first place, you did not open the car door for my guest to get out when she came here to supper."

A Poor Excuse

"But, sir, Norah came out for her, and opened the door, too."

"Which was not her place at all, and you should have known it was not. Later, when you arrived to take the ladies home, you stood with your back to me until I spoke to you, and then you took your seat instead of waiting to close the car door after we were seated.

"At Mrs. Duffield's house you sat still and allowed me to open the car door for myself and go up the steps with Mrs. Duffield. What is your excuse?"

"I thought, sir, that you would want to take Mrs. Duffield in yourself."

"I did want to. But you should have come around and opened the car door for me."

"There is usually a doorman there to do that, sir."

"But he was not there tonight!" Mr. Leighton exclaimed. "Don't be so stupid!"

"I am sorry, sir. I will try to do better another time. I will remember your instructions."

"You did not need those instructions, Smith," the employer accused. "That was proved by the fact that when I reached here just now you opened the car door for me. You were either very careless tonight or your mind was not on your job. I advise you to keep it there in the future."

"Yes, sir."

"Telephone to Miss Leighton in the morning by 9 o'clock for your orders for the day," Samuel Leighton added, turning to go into the house. "And, after this, try to think of the work you have to do, and that only."

"Very well, sir. Good-night, sir," the chauffeur replied meekly.

"I am sure I don't know what ails the fellow," Leighton complained to his daughter a few minutes later. "I scored him well, but he did not answer back. He had not been drinking, that was evident. Had I not seen him at other times I would think that he was a fool.

"But perhaps he is in love, which amounts to the same thing," he added with a laugh.

His daughter did not smile. "If he is in love, it is with Norah," she said. Then she shook her head impatiently. "It is absolutely unthinkable!" she declared angrily.

Her father shrugged his shoulders. "I don't see just why," he said. "Smith seemed to be a superior kind of chap, to be sure, but when a pretty girl appears one never can tell what change will come over a man's bearing and manners. Of course, Smith behaved abominably, and I told him so. Yet, if he is in love, do not be to hard on him—or Norah. It is not a sin, you know."

A Profusion of Telephones

There are in Stockholm about 80,000 telephone subscribers for a population of a little over 350,000, or one for every four and a half inhabitants. Practically speaking, there is not a person in Stockholm who has not the telephone or who cannot be reached by it. The telephone exists not only in nearly every house and every shop, even the humblest, but in most houses on every floor, and in hotels and pensions in every room in the establishment. In the principal streets and thoroughfares there are telephone kiosks which any passerby can enter and use by dropping a penny in the slot.

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning, and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful, clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Advertisement.

Resinol

would clear her skin

"She would be a pretty girl, if it wasn't for that pimply, blotchy complexion!" But the regular use of Resinol Soap, aided at first by a little Resinol Ointment, would probably make it clear, fresh and charming. If a poor skin is your handicap, begin using the Resinol treatment and see how quickly it improves.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are excellent, too, for the care of the hair, dispelling dandruff and keeping the hair rich and lustrous. All druggists sell Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. The Resinol Treatment contains nothing that could injure or irritate the most sensitive skin.

ORLD RULERS WILL VISIT AMERICA

ur Part in World War Inspires Foreign Statesmen to See What Nation Is Like

Washington, June 27.—America's ırt in the world war will have the fect of drawing many celebrities om all parts of the world to our ores during the next twelve onths. Foreign rulers, statesmen d other notables have announced eir intention of visiting us.

r. Epitacio Pessoa, President of razil, who is now in New York, is e first of the long line of distinuished statesmen and royal personges whom the United States is to ntertain.

he Prince of Wales is to visit this untry in August. He will be entertaned first at Newport and later will me to Washington to be officially tertained by the President.

King Albert and Queen Elizabeth, Belgium, and Queen Marie, of Rumania, possibly President Poincare, France, and probably many other members of royalty, will come later.

General Petain has already expressed his intention of visiting the United States, and an invitation to do so will be extended to Marshal Foch.

PREMIERS TO BE HERE.

The first session of the League of Nations is to be held in Washington in October, and will bring to the capital Premiers Lloyd George, Clemenceau and practically all the distinguished statesmen who have taken part in the peace negotiations in Paris.

The famous visitors entertained by the United States in the past have included the Prince of Wales, later Edward VII.; Dom Pedro, Emperor of Brazil; Prince Henry, of Prussia; the Crown Prince of Belgium, now King Albert; the Princess Eulalie, infanta of Spain; the Duke of Veragua, lineal descendant of Columbus; the Crown Prince of Siam, Prince Fushimi, of Japan; King Kalakaua, of Hawaii; Queen Liliokulani, of Hawaii; Prince Li Hung Chang, of China; the Grand Duke Alexis, of Russia; the Grand Duke of Connaught, President Diaz of Mexico, and President Barrios of Guatemala.

The great men of the world have conceived a new idea of the importance of the United States since the war. Undoubtedly what the United States did has instilled into the minds of all rulers and statesmen of European and Asiatic countries a desire to see and know more about the country which was capable of exerting such power in the great struggle and such influence in the councils of peace.

RETURN VISITS TO WILSON.

Moreover, since it is diplomatic courtesy to repay the visit of a chief of State, the rulers of the countries visited by President Wilson will feel obliged to visit the United States, even if they should not be prompted to do so by personal interest.

In the past, according to the State Department, it was the custom of the American government to frown on official visits of distinguished foreigners because of our lack of suitable places to entertain visiting royalty. But the practical democratization of Europe will leave us free of embarrassment in that respect in the future.

Rulers on visit to the United States most probably will not be inclined to criticize the arrangements made for their reception and the character of hospitality extended them. Undoubtedly they will be quite content to come here and be entertained on the basis of equality.

The State Department has an emergency fund for the entertainment of distinguished foreign visitors. But the department is in a quandary regarding one feature of the entertainment. It is wondering whether or not it will be possible to serve them wine if the United States government shall be officially and legally dry.

Our usual method of entertainment for a distinguished guest is to have an official of the State Department meet him at the port of entry. Then a special train brings him to Washington, where he is met by a delegation and escorted by a troop of cavalry to the residence reserved for him.

'Big Bertha' to Serve Scientists as an Air Tester

Paris, June 27.—"Big Bertha" has repented her evil life and is about to become of great use to scientists.

Her enormous propulsive power is to be employed in studying high atmosphere by means of a special projectile.

Elevated at an angle of forty-one degrees from the horizontal, "Big Bertha" can send the projectile eleven miles into the air. If pointed vertically she can send it fifty miles high, or ten times as high as the highest mountain in the world.

A prominent scientist, discussing the great opportunity offered to the scientific world, said they hoped to gain some knowledge of what ether is like at that great distance from the earth and whether density exists there, or will the projectile continue its way toward the stars.

VISITS HIS OWN GRAVE IN FRANCE—A MISTAKE

Divernon, Ill., June 27.—Sergeant Louis Chubboy has returned home after viewing his own grave in France. Captured by the Germans, he was held prisoner for more than a year.

When taken he abandoned his pack and other personal effects. These were found and identified as belonging to Chubboy. A dead American lay alongside them. He was buried as Chubboy, on release from the German prison camp after the signing of the armistice, came to France and saw his own grave.

SAVED PATIENT'S LIFE BY USE OF RAZOR

Red Cross Nurse in Macedonia Turns Railway Boxcar Into War-Time Hospital

Drama, Macedonia, June 1 (by Mail).—With nothing but an ordinary razor, a spool of No. 40 cotton thread and a small portion of ether and chloroform at her disposal, an American Red Cross nurse performed a life-or-death operation here as the result of which and her other errands of mercy she has come to be known as "the American Angel" by the homeless and starving Greek refugees.

Miss Maria P. Kouroyen is the American girl's name. Born of Greek parents, she was educated in Massachusetts and is a graduate nurse of the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. Because of her knowledge of Greek and her training, the American Red Cross sent her to Macedonia, that No Man's Land and Wild West of the near east, where typhus, smallpox and cholera tread on each other's heels and where the refugees bury their dead beneath the dirt floors of their shell-shattered shacks, so that the bread card of the dead member of their family shall not be taken up.

Living in a boxcar on a railroad siding, Miss Kouroyen one night saw a Greek soldier bearing a limp bundle over his shoulder. The bundle was carefully placed on the floor of the boxcar and unwrapped. Within was an aged Greek, with the pallor of suffering upon his face. Around his right leg was a rude tourniquet of rope. Filthy bandages covered the rope. The Greek soldier was followed by a small crowd composed of Turks, Greeks and a few British Tommies.

"He fell off the roof of a train under the wheels of a car while faint from lack of food," explained the Greek soldier. "The local doctor says it is no use to take him to a hospital, as he will die on the way. We have no surgeon here, and the British surgeons are not in town. Something must be done for him at once, or he will die!"

Miss Kouroyen spent no time in talking. Quickly she unwrapped the leg, the bone of which had been crushed in the accident. Lieutenant Abner J. Cobb, of Denver, Colo., an American Red Cross fieldworker, was shaving by candlelight in the boxcar at the time. Miss Kouroyen took the razor from his hand and, while it was sterilized in alcohol, anaesthetized her patient with her small supply of ether and chloroform, and amputated the bone with other primitive means.

With cotton thread No. 40 she "tied off" the arteries and veins and then cut away the loose flesh with the razor, which Lieutenant Cobb has since presented to her as a souvenir of her plucky work. The leg was then bound in an alcohol dressing.

Despite the prediction that the aged patient would not live through the night, Miss Kouroyen some time later received a visit from her patient. He had an American artificial limb of the same type worn by Sarah Bernhardt

Ratification of Woman's Suffrage Amendment

Imminent Adoption by the Nation Marks Termination of Long and Successful Campaign by the Hearst Newspapers

The ratification of the Woman's Suffrage Amendment Wednesday by the Massachusetts Legislature with its imminent ratification by the nation within a few weeks marks the close of a long struggle for a right that very obviously belongs to more than half the people of America.

It also marks the termination of the campaign for this reform by the Hearst newspapers — the greatest campaign with respect to space and length of time involved ever made by any newspapers in this country.

It also marks the successful fruition of one more item of the general program to make America safe for democracy which the Hearst newspapers years ago adopted and to which in sunshine and storm they have resolutely adhered.

One by one the items of this program, denounced as socialistic and visionary by all the reactionaries of the country when Mr. Hearst, on behalf of his newspapers, first promulgated them, have been adopted by the nation. More than two-thirds of this general program has now been enacted into the law of the land.

The next great step will be the public ownership and operation of our great public utilities — the railroads, telephone and telegraph companies, the gas and electric light companies and the street railways. When this step has been taken America, at least, will be made fairly safe for democracy. It is indeed the most important item in the program of reconstruction and reform. The political phase of public ownership and operation is vastly more important than the economic phase of the question, important as that may be. Under private management of these great public utilities we always have had, and, in human nature, we always will have, practices that sap away the very foundations of a government of, for and by the people. Vast sums of money always have been and, in human nature, always will be, spent by the railroads and other utilities under private management to control our Legislatures, our district attorneys and attorneys-general, our judges, our Congressmen and to "mould public opinion," to use the words of the attorney of the New Haven Railroad when he recently accounted for the expenditure of a certain $100,000 by the New Haven in Connecticut. It was common report among the insiders that more than $300,000 was spent by the New York Central in Massachusetts to "mould public opinion" in favor of the surrender of the Boston & Albany Railroad to the New York Central a few years ago. These instances are not exceptional but regular, characteristic, inherent, inevitable, ineradicable practices of railroads and other public utilities under private management.

The latest lists published by the War Department show that our casualties are now more than 300,000 in the war. If we were willing to spend so much blood and treasure to make the world safe for democracy is it not worth our while to spend a little bloodless effort to make America safe for democracy?

Evil Features of Taxation Committee's Plan

Mayor Walter H. Creamer of Lynn writes to the American the following letter on a most important subject:

> The joint committee on taxation has recommended a gradual distribution of the income tax to cities and towns in proportion to the State tax assessed upon them. This recommendation was sent to Senate Ways and Means. That committee has now been asked by powerful interests to substitute a measure returning one-half of the proceeds of this tax to the communities where the income tax payer may reside, the other half to be paid into the State Treasury.
> This plan would increase the tax rates of industrial communities and decrease those of the "Bedroom Towns." It would restore some of the vicious features of the old way of taxing intangibles would be an added incentive to legislative extravagances by increasing the fund at legislative disposal.

Mr. Creamer is an expert on taxation. He has long devoted himself to questions of taxation and specialized on this subject as a member of the Constitutional Convention.

But it is not necessary to have the opinion of an expert on the consequences of a bill such as Mr. Creamer describes. He who runs may understand the evil significance of such a scheme. This is no time for tax-dodging. The gentlemen who are backing up this scheme must understand that after they have put it through the Legislature they will have to put it through the people of this State for the Referendum will certainly be invoked against any scheme to relieve the fortunate minority in this State of their just share of the tax burdens.

We thank Mr. Creamer for calling our attention to this little conspiracy. If certain classes object to Bolshevism because it is alleged to be government run entirely for workingmen they ought to be very careful to do nothing that would prove that the government we have is run of a class very much smaller than that of the workers.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

CUSTOMER MAN—Called "CUS" for short.

CASHIER FLAPPER—Call her "CASH."

ICE CREAM AND SODA MIXER—Otherwise "MIX."

Crush of stenographer girls, tired shoppers, children ad lib. and other patrons. Customer Man waits his turn in front of Cashier's gilded cage. Finally makes it.

CUS—I wanna chocolate ice cream.

CASH—Eighteen cents. (Business of ticket.)

CUS (to Mixer)—Chocolate ice cream with fudge.

MIX—Two cents more; that's only an eighteen-cent check.

CUS—Cashier said eighteen.

MIX—Two cents more.

CASH (to Cashier)—He says two cents more.

CASH—Whaddaya want?

CUS—Chocolate ice cream with fudge.

CASH—Twenty-two cents.

CUS—He said twenty, eighteen and two more.

CASH—College ice is twenty-two. (Rips off five-cent check.)

CUS—But that makes twenty-three. (Cashier struggles with higher mathematics.)

CUS—Never mind. Gimme that five-cent check.

CASH—But I want the other check back and I'll fix it.

CUS (dashing to counter)—She wants that check back.

MIX—What check.

CUS—That eighteen-cent one I gave you for the chocolate ice cream and fudge which you said was two cents more, and she says its twenty-two and she gimme a five-cent check, which makes twenty-three, and——

MIX—That check's in the box.

CUS (back to Cashier)—He can't get it. It's in the box. My ice cream's on the counter. It's going fast.

CASH—Here's your five-cent check, then.

CUS (to Mixer)—There's your five-cent check.

MIX—Whaffor?

CUS—You wanted two cents more. She says it's twenty-two. She gimme a five-cent check on top of an eighteen. That's twenty-three. My ice cream's melting and the Germans will probably sign, but the Braves are still in last place. I'm gonna eat this ice cream now, legal or not.

MIX—I'll say so.

TAKE 'EM AWAY

We are off that locust menu. Remember the recent suggestion of Dr. Ethan Allen Andrews of Johns Hopkins University: "Eat locusts. They are just like shrimps." Now comes a depressing dispatch from Indiana that a flock of Hoosier chickens died after eating locusts with relish. Unless one is tougher than an Indiana chicken, best let locusts alone at meal time.

THE TRUSTING OF PEOPLE IS OFTEN COSTLY

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

THE cleverest of us are going to be cheated now and then; the wisest of us will make mistakes in our estimates of persons with whom we are thrown; the most generous and sympathetic of us will occasionally find our confidence abused. These being facts, they might as well be accepted without too much heartburning and resentment.

A woman has written me a letter in which she relates an unfortunate circumstance, where, through an act of friendship on her part, and acting in all good faith, she yet found herself the loser in money, in self-esteem and in her faith in her fellow-beings.

"I shall never again trust a man or woman," she says, and it is no doubt a very natural remark for her to make.

But in trying to carry out such a vow she will find that she inflicts more punishment on herself than on those who have wronged her. She will virtually penalize herself, for she will have to shut herself completely off from the world and to live in an attitude of continual suspicion. She will embitter and narrow her life until it will be impossible to make or retain any friendships whatever.

Matter of Give and Take

Life is a matter of give and take, and we've got to take the good with the bad, the sour with the sweet, and make the best of it.

A man once told me of a method by which he kept his faith in human nature. It happened that when he was a young man, and following the advice of all the all-thrift mentors, he set himself to lay up a hundred dollars.

Three dollars a week was all he could spare from his earnings, and each of those three dollars meant something he had given up for the sake of saving.

When he finally completed the amount, he felt as if he owned the earth. It represented the foundation of success in life to him. Then his best friend asked him to lend him the amount, promising to pay it back within a certain time and with interest. The friend lost the money, however, and to this day has never returned it.

Yet in spite of this disillusioning experience, the man again and with the same self-denial, a little sterner this time, saved up another hundred.

No sooner had he done so than he learned that a girl whom he had known all his life was making a terrific struggle. Then ensued an equally terrific struggle with himself.

On the one side he had reason to believe that his treasured hundred dollars would tide the girl over an especially rough place and enable her to get on her feet. On the other hand, he could not fail to remember his first experience in loaning to the apparently needy. However, in the end, he insisted on the girl taking his money.

She justified his belief in her, for she did get on her feet, and stayed there. She repaid the money, and also his generosity with her eternal gratitude. And he, in turn, grateful for his restored faith in humanity, dedicated that hundred dollars to any one in need.

Pays Interest—Happiness

He has prospered and grown rich since that time and has given large sums in charity, but he says that nothing ever given or gained has yielded him one-half the happiness that does that hundred, which he keeps always lent to some person struggling in the mire of circumstances.

Time and again it has helped a lame dog over a stile, set some one up in business, given a man or a woman a chance, or has kept the wolf from some door. He asserts that it has rarely failed to come back, and that he can never measure the returns of good-will it has brought him.

HOW HEIRESS MANAGED HER OWN ELOPEMENT

Miss Drexel managed her own elopement! Unlike the timid maids of the olden days, who awaited and obeyed their masterful Romeos, this modern Juliet drives herself away in her own car, picks up her waiting lover, and whisks him off to be married! A new-fashioned romance, told in the next

Dante in Sing Sing
A White Man Working
Serious British Labor
Robbing Six Millions

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1919.)

No mind, not even Dante's, can imagine anything that is not in human nature. Dante shows you enemies that meet in Hell. As they turn in the boiling pitch, suffering for all eternity, one bites and gnaws at the skull of the other, and thus biting, they sink from sight.

That is the world's greatest fiction and not unlike today's reality. Albert Gerguilo is in Sing Sing prison for life. His enemy, John McGlyn, after some years is sent to join him there. Both are sentenced to the best earthly imitation of Hell. Gerguilo sees McGlyn, leaps upon him, stabs him ferociously, severs his backbone, kills him. Gerguilo will have his life sentence made short in the electric chair. Where, if anywhere, will those two men meet next, and what will Gerguilo do the next time?

There is rioting in Toledo; cars ditched and burned when the street carfare is raised. What will happen in New York with its six million people when corporation gentlemen will try to get dividends on watered stocks by assessing every man, woman, school child and working child six cents a day, eighteen dollars a year?

Proceedings before Federal Judge Mayer show that a sample street car line on Eighth avenue, its cost first well watered, was rented to the big trust on a basis to pay over 26 per cent. a year.

Eminent statesmen, hired as lawyers to say anything they are told to say, declare that the great trusts, over capitalized at least four times, cannot pay expenses unless allowed to put a tax on all the poor. They mean that the trust needs the money to pay 26 per cent. interest to some one that did nothing but steal the streets from the city by bribing Aldermen.

Which would be justice, to put a tax on hard-working poverty or say to prosperous rascals that hire ex-Presidents and Presidential candidates to work for them: "You cannot have your 26 per cent. or any per cent unless you can earn it by living up to your contract with the city calling for a 5-cent fare."

When blocked in other directions wily corporations usually turn to the courts. This New York case is worth watching. Those that dread what they call "unreasoning discontent" would do well to put off a scheme that would make the biggest city in the land discontented with good reason. Profiteering in tens of millions during war and at the rate of 6 cents a day per person during peace would be thorough, but would it be wise?

They will not try that nonsense in Chicago, for they know the temper of the population. If New York puts it through, even that heavy city may develop "temperament."

A colored songster, with a happy face, used to sing, "I've Got a White Man Working for Me." It would have made him sad to learn that his white man was too sick to work.

The allies could sing "I've Got a German Man Working for Me," and that explains allied anxiety about Germany's internal health Peace is settled, but German railroads are tied up with strikes, plots are formed to kill the leaders that signed the peace. Such conditions, prolonged, might interfere with the collection of billions. It is one thing to issue bonds—Germany can easily do that—another thing to pay them off. Englishmen who bought our Southern bonds at bargain prices know it.

Information about the formalities of peace signing come slowly. With German statesmen it is a case of "after you, Alphonse." Everybody says he will resign rather than sign for Germany. Some in Lorraine have celebrated the treaty by committing suicide, others are expected to do so on the day of signing, which would be a Japanese way of registering displeasure.

Nevertheless it will be a memorable signing. Mrs. Wilson and her secretary and Miss Margaret Wilson will be there, according to Associated Press dispatches, and in one corner there will be three hundred newspaper men from all over the world. They will be the real audience, for they will see and listen for as many of the earth's fifteen hundred million inhabitants as can read.

Judge Brandeis of our Supreme Court is off to Palestine. He devotes his vacation after a year of intense work to the welfare of Jerusalem, whence his ancestors come. The man who has reverence for his fathers, for the land, traditions and aspirations of his race, will have the right reverence of feeling for his own country.
